HIGHWAY PROJECT CAUSES DELAYS

Traffic slowed on Highway 101 today in the southbound lanes near the Greenbrae interchange, one of several projects under way this summer along Highway 101. The Independent-Journal, starting today, will print each day information about such Division of Highways projects which may cause delay for motorists. A Division of Highways spokesman said that in addition to the slide removal project, which will cause short delays at the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard exit from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. tomorrow and on California Park Hill where a southbound shoulder lane will be closed from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., two other projects will be under way tomorrow. Motorists will be slowed just north of Novato from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. where one northbound lane will be closed and south of the Waldo Tunnel, where a southbound inside lane will also be closed from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Egyptians Tell Russian Advisers To Exit Country

Ties Stretching Back 16 Years Are Broken With Sadat Order

CAIRO (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has told an estimated 20,000 Russian military advisers to go home, official sources said today, apparently breaking ties with the Kremlin that stretch back 16 years.

Political sources in Beirut described the move as the worst blow to Soviet-Egyptian relations since the association began.

The sources said the Soviets started going home not long after Sadat made his request.

The reason for Sadat's action was not completely clear but an official announcement was expected later. The decision came only three days after Premier Aziz Sidky spent only one day of a scheduled three-day visit to Moscow.

Sadat asked Russia to bring its men home following a two and one-half hour meeting with the central committee of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party.

Sources said the advisers, which included an estimated 200 pilots and and unknown number of missile and air defense experts, have already started leaving.

(London reports quoted a British newspaper today as saying Sidky asked for more offensive weapons fron the Soviets and was rebuffed. The expulsion of the advisers was the Egyptian reply, it said.)

Al Ahram newspaper said two days ago that Sidky spent eight straight hours with Kremlin leaders discussing topics relating to Egypt.

(Political sources in Beirut said it was an open secret the Soviet presence was becoming an increasing internal irritant in Egypt and they noted that at a recent ASU meeting as many as 90 per cent of the questions related to the Soviet advisers.

(The sources said it was likely Sadat would state that since the major Soviet task of installing SA2 surface -to-air missiles was completed, their presence was no longer required).

The Beirut An Nahar newspaper said recently Egypt was spending an average $5 million a day on defense and now owed the Soviet Union a total $7 billion. This sum, it said, was equal to the value of all of Egypt's agricultural land.

According to the Institute of Strategic Studies in London, the Soviet advisers operated Egypt's air defense system consisting of anti-aircraft guns, 70 sites with six launchers each of SA2 surface to air missiles, a radar network and six squadrons of MIG21 interceptors. Coordinated with this defense are up to 150 MIG21 and possibly MIG23 aircraft.

Egypt's ties with the Soviet Union go back to a weapons agreement in 1956. Since then, including the period during the Middle East war of 1967, Russia has been Egypt's major military and economic backer. Sadat also signed a new military pact with the Kremlin earlier this year, apparently giving the Arabs major concessions and enough arms to prepare Egypt for another war with Israel.

In Beirut, UPI correspondent Gerard Loughran, quoting Arab political analysts, said Sadat's decision to expel his Russian military advisers from Egypt indicates the Soviet Union has no intention of becoming involved in a super-power conflict in the Middle East.

It also suggests Sadat is shoring up his own position against the increasing resentment the Soviet presence in Egypt has caused.

Sadat further hopes to deflate Israel's claim that it needs American military help to support its position as the only deterrent to communism in the area.

Arab analysts believe Sidky asked the Soviets for further supplies of offensive weapons and that the Soviets refused. They consider the Soviet-American detente concluded between President Nixon and Soviet chiefs in Moscow in May affirmed a bilateral determination not to be brought into possible atomic conflict over the Arab-Israeli issue.

As a result of the Soviet refusal, which apparently was anticipated in Egypt since high-level secret meetings were held over the past two weeks, Sidky is thought to have passed on Sadat's decision to ask for the Soviet withdrawal.

Javits Initiates Anti-Spiro Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., tried today to start a "dump-Agnew" movement.

At a news conference, Javits urged President Nixon either to find another running mate to replace Vice President Spiro T. Agnew or to throw open to the Republican convention the choice of the vice-presidential candidate.

Javits said he did not want to mention candidates he preferred, but he said New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller or Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, the only black in the Senate, would add strength to Nixon's reelection campaign.

He was decidedly cool toward former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr., a Democrat, who has been mentioned most frequently as a possible Agnew replacement.

Javits said he long had held and expressed misgivings about Agnew and "my reservations continue unabated ... in terms of the best interests of the total ticket and of the country."

Asked about himself as a vice presidential candidate, Javits said only "that would be a little presumptuous."

Javits said he recognized that if Nixon "wants to run with Vice President Agnew and that's his choice, I do not see that I could properly contest that."

But, Javits said, "if he leaves the field open, I would do my utmost" to convince the Republican national convention, which opens Aug. 20, to find another candidate.

"I have nothing personal against Agnew," Javits said, but he denounced Agnew's "name-calling" which "adds nothing to the substance of the debate.

"Nixon will be mistaken," he said, if he thinks Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern will be easy to beat. But he thought Nixon "has an excellent chance to win."

Javits' effort recalled 1956 when Harold E. Stassen sought unsuccessfully to persuade President Dwight D. Eisenhower to select another running mate. The vice president at the time was Richard M. Nixon.

Lib Loses Round On Jobs Plea

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today informally sided with the county personnel commission against Women's libbers on recommendations for fair hiring policies.

During a 90-minute session with the commission, supervisors turned down arguments by some 20 members of the National Organization for Women and James H. Mason of the state Fair Employment Practices Commission against giving county personnel director Maren F. Rinne the additional title of affirmative action officer.

The women and Mason endorsed another personnel commission proposal — for a "comprehensive survey of county employees by sex and ethnic origin" — as the first step in setting up an affirmative action program required by state and federal hiring laws.

But NOW members said Mrs. Rinne's designation as action officer would be a conflict of interest. Mason said the new post should be full-time by itself, and could not be handled as additional duties by the personnel officer.

I. Wayland Bonbright, personnel commission chairman, said the commission was unanimous in recommending Mrs. Rinne as affirmative action officer. The new post would be required to design a program for hiring minorities and to watchdog compliance with the program under state and federal laws.

Bonbright denied charges by NOW spokesmen Barbara Pad-

Bold New British Plan For Individual Freedoms

By PETER STUART
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LONDON — Great Britain — cradle of many of the civil liberties of the English-speaking world — may be about to introduce bold, new protections for the individual citizen.

A two-year government study of personal privacy recommends banningprivate electronic bugging, restricting personal data in computers and forcing credit agencies to bare each dossier to the person involved.

But the study committee — whose 16 members range from titled noblemen to a young novelist and a newspaper reporter — stops short of proposing a general right of privacy. The reason: it might impede "free circulation of information."

Some implementation seems assured. Home Secretary Reginald Maulding said the government is "studying urgently" the recommendations, and will outline its conclusions in a white paper — reportedly in the autumn.

Although the privacy study was launched by the previous Labor government (and was chaired by a former Labor minister, Sir Kenneth Younger), the ruling Conservative government has echoed the concern with a probe of the government's own computers.

Britons' new wariness over their personal privacy springs as much from widely publicized invasions of privacy elsewhere — especially the United States — as from any indiscretions here.

But the potential for abuse, many Britons feel, is massive. One credit-reference bureau alone, British Debt Services, Ltd., maintains eight million personal files.

Chief recommendations:

BUGGING. Electronic surveillance, in circumstances where a victim might assume to be safe, should be made a crime.

Financial data. Britons should be granted a legal right of access to information about themselves. Banks should seek a customer's permission before exchanging records with other banks. And credit-rating agencies should be regulated by a consumer-credit commissioner.

Computers. Computer operators should draft a code of standards for personal information. The government should set up machinery to monitor their compliance — including checking public complaints, and perhaps licensing data banks.

Private detectives. All should be licensed, with criminal penalties for unlicensed work.

Press. The public voice in the present watchdog agency, the Press Council, should be doubled — from five to 10 nonjournalistic members of the 20-member body — to help curb sensational journalism which "can do grave damage to private individuals, out of proportion to any general benefit derived from the dissemination of the news."

Reaction to the study committee's 40 recommendations is mixed. Civil-liberty groups, while pleased with many of the proposals, regret the rejection of a general right of privacy.

A parliamentary champion of privacy, Leslie Huckfield of Warwickshire, charges that sidestepping the problem of governmental snooping leaves the report "a timid mouse, caught in the trap of its own terms of reference."

But most response agrees wholeheartedly with the study committee's conclusion that British personal privacy is reeling under "dangerous pressures" and "requires additional protection."

Jane Fonda's Trip: A Treasonous Act?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Fletcher Thompson, R-Ga., accused actress Jane Fonda today of giving aid and comfort to the enemy and asked the Justice Department to charge her with treason.

Thompson told the House that press accounts quoted Miss Fonda as urging U.S. troops in Vietnam to "desert and turn themselves in to the North Vietnamese."

"Declared war or undeclared war, this is treason," Thompson said. "It is time this government took some action against such people as Jane Fonda giving aid and comfort to an enemy."

Thompson said he was writing Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst and "urging him to investigate fully and to bring charges of treason against Jane Fonda."

Miss Fonda has been in Hanoi and among other statements, according to Radio Hanoi, has called on U.S. pilots to quit bombing North Vietnam.

Later Thompson told a reporter he was asking the attorney general to determine the facts and, if Miss Fonda had been quoted accurately, to bring treason charges against her.

Family Wealth Out In Collegian Loans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Interest free loans for hundreds of thousands of college students this fall will be based on need rather than family income under new regulations issued today by the U.S. Office of Education.

The temporary regulations, effective immediately, give colleges authority to resume processing loan applications that had been frozen while the government drafted rules for new education legislation passed by Congress and signed by President Nixon on June 23.

They also put a greater burden on colleges to determine which students need loans.

"The central change in the law and the regulations is to shift the basis for the eligibility of a borrower ... after June 30 from the existing requirement that the borrowers adjusted family income (after taxes) be less than $15,000 to a standard involving a determination as to ... need," said the regulation published in today's Federal Register.

Colleges are told to determine needs by subtracting expected family contributions from the cost of tuition, fees, room and board and commuting costs.

The loans are interest free only while the student is in school and interest payments take effect within nine to 12 months after graduation. Students still may get other federal guaranteed loans without qualifying for the interest subsidies, said Phil Miller, administrative assistant in the division of insured loans.

During the nine month period ending last March, more than one million college students received federally guaranteed loans worth over $1 billion, he said. The vast majority of them qualified for interest subsidies but the number who will qualify this year is not known.

"Colleges must use a publically accepted method of determining expected family contribution," Miller said. "But a school may not use one system for one student and one for another."

Court Halts Detroit Busing For Fall, State Attorney Says

DETROIT (UPI)—Cross-district busing for the Detroit metropolitan area has been stopped for this fall by a U.S. Court of Appeals decision, an attorney for the state of Michigan said today.

Eugene Krasicki, an assistant attorney general arguing the Detroit school integration case, said the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals decision Monday in Cincinnati makes it difficult to start busing this September.

A three-judge appellate panel continued a stay on an order by U.S. District Judge Stephen J. Roth, to force the state to purchase 295 buses, until Roth issues—or makes—his order a final, appealable decision.

Krasicki said the continued delay in the ordering of the buses "stopped cross-district busing in the Detroit area for Fall, 192."

"There's not enough time left to get the buses, and without the buses there's no desegregation," Krasicki said.

While the appeals court action may stop an interim busing order for this fall, as Krasicki claims, it also is believed to be the spark needed to bring the case to a final determination.

Roth today scheduled a hearing for Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Flint, Mich., to hear motions to make his interim orders, including the one to purchase buses, final decisions that can be appealed.

Louis R. Lucas, attorney for the NAACP which brought the suit two years ago, said he would ask Roth to permit appeals of his various rulings so "no one will have any excuse for not appealing and then blaming their failures on someone else."

"This will force the state's hand," Lucas said. "After this, they can no longer claim that they can't get an appeal." The three-judge appellate panel said the stay on the purchase order would be lifted if Roth certified an appeal of his purchase order.

Presently, Roth's decision last fall that Detroit schools were deliberately segregated and must be integrated with schools in 52 suburban school districts is not appealable because it is not in the form of a final desegregation order.

Roth was not expected to sign the final order until after mid-August, when he was to review the recommendations of an integration planning panel.

But, after Monday's ruling, there was speculation he would give permission for an early appeal to his full integration order —possibly today.

Mystery Blasts On U.S. Destroyer Off N. Vietnam

SAIGON (XUPI)—Two unexplained underwater explosions rocked the destroyer USS Warrington Monday off North Vietnam, the U. S. command said today. Military sources said there was no Communist activity in the area when the blasts occurred.

One crewman was slightly wounded, the command said. He was given first aid and returned to duty.

In South Vietnam, the government drive to recapture Quang Tri City entered its third week today with the North Vietnamese still in control of the city's walled Citadel, Saigon spokesmen sjid. The U. S. command reported two incidents in the Quang Tri-Hue area in which U. S. aircraft fire accidentally wounded five South Vietnamese soldiers Monday.

Near Quang Tri City, two Air Force jet fighter-bombers erroneously fired on a government marine position, wounding four men. Near Hue, 35 miles south of Quang Tri, a Marine fighter-bomber in a similar error fired on a government marine battalion, injuring one soldier.

The Warrington left the scene, about 20 miles offshore from the North Vietnamese panhandle, under its own power. But after its engine room began to flood it was taken under tow, though the flooding was brought under control. The destroyer was en route today to Subic Bay in the Philippines for repairs.

On June 4 the destroyer Joseph Strauss was damaged by two underwater explosions by shellfire from shore. But naval spokesmen said there were no Communist gunboats nor any shore batteries firing when the Warrington was hit. The Navy said an investigation of the blasts was under way.

Teamster Support Goes To President

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI)—The Teamsters, largest independent union in the country, broke with traditional labor support for the Democrats and endorsed President Nixon Monday, saying George McGovern doesn't care about middle class workers.

It was another blow at the McGovern candidacy by organized labor, which fiercely resisted McGovern's nomination.

The executive council of the AFL-CIO—to which the Teamsters do not belong has scheduled a special meeting in Washington Wednesday to discuss what stand to take. The meeting was called by AFL-CIO President George Meany, a leading figure in the bitter preconvention fight against McGovern. ,

There have been reports the giant labor organization, traditionally a very important power base for the Democratic candidate, might opt to "sit out" the campaign, refusing its support to McGovern but not going so far as to work for Nixon's re-election.,

The Teamsters' decision was announced by the president of the 2 million member union, Frank E. Fitzsimmons, who said he realized such an action is "at odds with the traditionel and almost reflex support of labor for the Democratic ticket."

The board had decided to back Nixon, he said, because "the blue collar workers, which comprise the backbone of America, seem to be of little concern to the McGovern ticket."

Conversations with Teamster members convinced him the Nixon endorsement reflects the wishes of the union rank-and file, he said.

He said the Democratic nominee "has not earned the support of America's working men and women. Our members work hard for their wages. They are entitled to what they earn, and they figure the govenment ought to get off of our back and out of our pockets."

McGovern had cast antilabor votes on a number of issues he said, including right-to-work laws, and urged Teamster members "to work and vote to keep President Nixon in office another four years."

The Teamster endorsement did not come as a surprise, since Fitzsimmons has supported Nixon's policies in the past, and was the only union member to remain on the federal Pay Board when other labor leaders quit to protest the administration's wage controls.

After the endorsement, the 17-member board travelled 40 miles up the coast to the Western White House, where they were warmly greeted by President Nixon.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Call For Viet Peace

PARIS (UPI — Bao Dai, former emperor of Vietnam under French colonial rule, has broken 17 years of silence to issue an appeal to the "whole Vietnam nation" to join efforts in ending the war.

Dai

Bao Dai, 61, called for an end to the "fratricidal war" in a letter addressed to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu Sunday.

The ex-ruler in his letter accused the North Vietnamese of attempting to invade the south in an offensive beginning last March.

The letter also expressed Bao Dai's wish to find a "national reconciliation," in South Vietnam.

"Like any other Vietnamese citizen," it read, "I formulate the dearest wish for national reconciliation, let us join hands so that Vietnam can survive."

Swedish Aide Slain

BOGOTA (UPI) — The first secretary of the Swedish Embassy in Bogota, Kjell Richard Haeggloef, was shot to death by one of three men riding with him in his car yesterday, police said.

Investigators said Haeggloef, 30, was assassinated only three hours before Karl Iver Reinhold, reportedly a Swedish newsman, was to be deported following accusations that he had contacts with guerrilla groups in Colombia.

A witness aid Haeggloef was driving his white Mercedes Benz through the middle of town when one of the men sitting in the back seat lifted a pistol to the back of his neck and fired three times. The man in the passenger seat maneuvered the car to the side of the street and the three fled.

Joint Probe Hardware

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Russia plans to commit two Soyuz spaceships and rockets to the joint Soviet-American project aiming toward a rendezvous of cosmonauts and astronauts in Earth orbit three years from now.

U. S. project manager Glynn S. Lunney said at a news conference yesterday the preparation of two of the Russian ships for flight will increase the probabilities of success for the unprecedented space meeting.

Soviet space officials advised their American counterparts of the dual Soyuz plan during a two-week meeting at the Manned Spacecraft Center which reached agreements on several key technical areas, including a July, 1975, target date.

Murder Indictments

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UPI) — Two United Mine Workers (UMW) officials, the last of seven defendants to be arrested in the Yablonski slayings, have been indicted on three counts of murder each by a Washington County Grand Jury.

The jury returned the indictments yesterday against Albert Pass, 58, a member of the UMW Executive Board, and William Jack Prater, 53, a union field representative. They are charged in the Dec. 31, 1969 deaths of union insurgent Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski, his wife and daughter, at their Clarksville, Pa. home.

The panel, however, dropped conspiracy charges against the two union officials.

Ford Recalls Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An organization in Ralph Nader's consumer coalition wants the Ford Motor Co. to recall more than four million Fords and Mercurys built in a five-year span because it contends the front wheels may fall off.

The Center for Auto Safety said control arms in full-sized 1965-69 models are too thin and subject to fractures. A control arm is instrumental in the steering and suspension mechanism of the front wheel.

The center quoted "reliable sources" as saying that Ford "has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars to cover up this defect."

Boston Unrest Continues

BOSTON (UPI) — A fire damaged a drugstore and a police cruiser's windshield was shattered yesterday in the second consecutive night of unrest in the South End.

The trouble was confined to streets near the Cathedral Housing Project. Police said the situation was under complete control by early today.

Fire Department trucks went to the drugstore at the corner of Washington and West Brookline streets about 9 p.m. and encountered no interference from the youths.

Moon Caper Assailed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Wisconsin congressman believes the Apollo 15 astronauts should be kicked out of the space program for their "moonmail" caper.

Rep. Les Aspin, E-Wis., said yesterday the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) "grossly underreacted" when it only reprimanded astronauts Col. David R. Scott, Lt. Col. Alfred M. Worden and Col. James B. Irwin.

The astronauts took 400 specially postmarked envelopes to the moon. A foreign dealer got some of the envelopes and sold the stamp collector items for $1,500 each.

Angry Stones Fans

MONTREAL (UPI) — Thousands of Rolling Stones fans, angry at being denied entrance to their long-awaited concert, pelted police with rocks, bricks and smoke bombs outside the Montreal Forum last night while some 20,000 ticket holders listened to the music inside.

Police said 13 persons were arrested, including three for possession and sale of falsified tickets. Fourteen people, including one policeman, reportedly suffered injuries. Most were cut by flying rocks and bottles.

The clash began when a crowd of youths who had not been able to get tickets for the concert gathered in a park directly opposite the Forum and began hurling projectiles at police.

Witness To Slaying

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mobster (Tommy Ryan) Eboli's bodyguard told police yesterday his boss was shot to death by a gunman firing from the cab of a moving truck.

The underworld chieftan was walking towards his parked Cadillac in Brooklyn early Sunday when the red and yellow truck came down the street and the gunman opened fire, Joseph Sternfeld, 53, told police. Eboli was hit in the face and neck by five .32-caliber bullets.

Sternfeld, described as a longtime associate of Eboli, said he was sitting in the car when the shooting started. He said he ducked under the dashboard and did not get a look at the gunman's face.

Strike Over Dismissal

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — A nurse, whose jismissal apparently sparked a hunger strike yesterday by about 900 inmates at the Attica Correctional Facility, has been rehired. There were indications, however, that the firing of Mrs. Mary Kingsley, was only one of a number of problems disturbing the prisoners.

The prisoners refused to leave their cells all day yesterday but Ernest L. Montayne, the prison superintendent, said the situation was peaceful.

The inmates held Mrs. Kingsley in high regard, according to prison officials. A petition which was reportedly circulated among the prisoners described her as a "nurse who listened to our complaints and tried to help."

Subpoena Plan Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Assembly approved and sent to the governor Monday on a 60-8 vote a bill by Sen. John L. Harmer that authorizes defense attorneys to subpoena witnesses.

Progress Announced By Monetary Chiefs

LONDON (UPI) — Western European finance ministers today announced "some progress" towards solving the world's monetary ills.

Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber told a news conferencev "We have made some progress which will be helpful in reaching a world-wide solution of our monetary problems."

He said agreement by the West Europeans should be helpful to finance chiefs of the non-Communist world when they meet in Washington in September to discuss long term reform of the world's monetary system.

Barber spoke at the end of a two-day conference of finance ministers and central bankers of the six European Common Market countries and four other countries — -Britain, Ireland, Denmark and Norway—which join next January.

Barber said today's session was devoted to filling in details of an eight-point blueprint for world monetary reform on which the ministers agreed Monday.

Barber said the London talks dealt with long term reform of the world monetary system and not with the present dollar crisis. However, officials said this was discussed on the sidelines.

Barber told a news conference at the end of the opening session Monday that the blueprint on which the ministers agreed was about "the fundamental objectives of a new world monetary system rather than rigid positions taken in advance of the Washington talks."

He stressed that the ministers who agreed on it represented countries with a total population of 255 million and 40 per cent of world trade.

U.S. Oil Firm Pact With USSR

LONDON (UPI)—The American Occidental Petroleum Company today announced a fivey-ear scientific and technical cooperation agreement with the Soviet Union.

Dr. Armand Hammer, chairman of Occidental, told a news conference the agreement was a direct result of President Nixon's trip to the Soviet Union in May.

He put no monetary value on the pact

State May Have To Limit Cars

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California may eventually limit the number of automobiles in the state as the only way to cope with air pollution, according to a state official.

California's "biggest problem" is "the fact that automobiles are still increasing here," and there may have to be a ceiling imposed on their numbers, said Norman B. Livermore, secretary of the state Resources Agency.

"I think we've got to head that way," Livermore said Monday.

Livermore was one of 35 U.S. delegates to the United Nations environmental conference in Stockholm. He spoke to a chamber of commerce lunch.

'Shop For Surgeon Like A Used Car'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Pennsytvania Insurance Department released a "Shopper's Guide to Surgery" Monday warning consumers to shop for surgeons just as carefully as they shop for used cars.

Insurance Commissioner Herbert S. Denenberg, author of the guide, said it is designed to prevent the consumer from becoming one of the almost 2 million patients each year who undergo needless surgery.

"Most surgeons are competent, conscientious, careful and conservative," Denenberg said. "Some are narrowly trained and tend to do what they are trained to do—operate.

"A small minority are knife-happy, incompetent and greedy. And there is a tendency for surgeons to do their thing—which is to perform surgery."

The guide cites numerous studies and books, including one by Ralph Nader, which support Denenberg's contention that "unnecessary surgery takes a needless toll of human lives and generates suffering, disability and expense."

It said, for example, that a study by Columbia University School of Public Health and Administrative Medicine found that of 60 hysterectomies, 20 were unnecessary and six were questionable.

Another Leg Of Journey Completed

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI)— Larry Capune, the surfboarder whose biggest headaches lately have been fog and tanker ships, has completed another 20 miles of his journey from Hull, Mass., to Miami Beach.

Capune, of Balboa Island, Calif., was somewhat disappointed by his progress Monday but blamed heavy fog for most of his troubte. He has completed more than 300 miles of his 2,600-mile trip lying face down on a small surfboard, steering "by hand, mostly."

Eagleton Denies Laird's Charge Of Aircraft 'Deal'

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democratic vice presidential nominee Thomas Eagleton has denied the charge of Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird that he made a deal with Sen. George S. McGovern to insure production of the F15 fighter plane.

Laird made the charge at a news conference Monday.

Eagleton, however, said he had supported the F15 in the past because it is "far superior" to the F14 "Tomcat" and is a lighter, more flexible aircraft.

"I will continue to speak out for the F15 in a McGovern Eagleton administration, but I understand full well that the final decision will be made by the president alone," the Missouri senator said.

San Rafael Rezones Grand Avenue Land

The San Rafael City Council last night rezoned the entire 9-acre former Marist property at 1675 Grand Avenue from unclassified to single-family residential district with a 10,000 square foot lot minimum.

The action was intended to insure that if any of the present uses allowed on the property are discontinued, owners will have to apply for a permit to proceed with any use except sicgle family residential, according to Herbert G. Hotchner, planning Director.

Permits have been granted for a tennis club, ballet school and church parsonage.

The council last night amended one permit to insure that a gymnasium on the church portion of the parcel be open to non-spectator athletic activities no more than twice weekly and reaffirmed a previous ban of "meeting hall" use of the facility by outside groups.

"Everybody should be happy now," said Mayor C. Paul Bettini after the council action.

Development of the site had met heated opposition from residents who feared disruption of the neighborhood, but several neighbors who turned out last night appeared happy with the council's residential rezoning action.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

BOND ISSUE — Reaffirmed support of a local $2.25 million open space bond election and approved Sept. 19 as the date of that election.

OPEN SPACE — Received a 206-signature petition from a Miracle Mile resident who urged that heavily forested areas on the south side of the strip be given top priority in the city's open space acquisition program.

CITY CLERK — Set the city clerk's salary at $1,100 monthly.

CHAMBER FUNDING — Put over until Aug. 7 consideration of added funding for the city's chamber of commerce. The chamber — which receives $1,000 annually from the city — has warned that sagging finances may force it to curtail city civic activities.

DETACHMENT — Asked the board of supervisors to approve the detachment of a 2.7-acre parcel between Ridgewood Drive and Los Ranchitos Road from the city. Richard Parasol, owner of the land, requested the detachment because the parcel is accessible only through county land.

ANNEXATION — Heard Asst. City Mgr. William J. Bielser report that annexation of the Terra Linda Community Services District to the city would be economically feasible for both communities. The district — with an assessed valuation of $9,189,000 — offers the city an estimated $145,849 annual income, balanced by an annual estimated expense to the city of $148,500 for public works, recreation and fire costs, Bielser said. The council and the district board will meet today at 8 p.m. to continue annexation talks.

CIVIC CENTER SECURITY — Rejected a proposal by the board of supervisors that the city provide police protection for the Marin County Civic Center grounds. The city presently handles all vehicle accidents on Civic Center property and provides fire protection. Sheriff patrols on Civic Center grounds were eliminated from the 1972-73 county budget.

ASSESSMENT DISTRICT — Agreed that City Engineer Ely Caillouette Jr. will provide engineering services for the proposed Lucas Valley open space assessment district. The district will be billed at overtime rates for the assistance.

TRAFFIC CONTROL — Hired Jantje J. Perry as a parking enforcement officer at a monthly salary of $624. The new officer will fill an existing vacancy.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. today for merger talks with the Terra Linda Community Services District.

Street In Petaluma To Remain Open

The Petaluma City Council decided last night against plans to close a portion of English Street after hearing hours of complaints from neighbors.

The council voted unanimously to drop plans to close English Street at Western Avenue. Attorney David Traversi presented a petition of opposition signed by 555 residents of the area complaining of inconveniences the closing would bring.

Traversi also argued that the street abandonment would cause access problems for the nearby Hagstrom's shopping center and hurt businesses there.

Asst. City Engineer Harold Wood had told the council that closing the street would solve some of the problems at the five-legged intersection at Western Avenue and reduce traffic hazards.

The Petaluma City Council also:

DOWNTOWN DISTRICT — Approved the formation of a parking and business improvement area to assess downtown businesses to improve promotion campaigns and create a fund for the eventual removal of parking meters. A seven-man committee will be named to administer the fund.

JITNEY — Received a request from Gravensen Bros. to reduce the hours of jitney bus service, but referred it to the traffic committee and chamber of commerce for study.

The California Highway Patrol said the truck drifted off the road on a soft shoulder and overturned in a deep ditch.

ST. JOHNS, Virgin Islands (UPI)—U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall was reported in satisfactory condition Monday after suffering fractures in an ankle and a finger when the rented jeep he was driving overturned, pinning him under it.

Police said Marshall, 64, lost control of the jeep when his foot became caught on the throttle. The jeep jumped a curb, hit a stone wall and overturned, pinning the justice and his eldest son, Thurgood Jr., who did not suffer any injuries.

Marin City Master Plan Due More Resident Study

The Marin County Planning Commission last night deferred action on the proposed Marin City master plan pending further study by community groups.

Commission Chairman Jack G. Nixon said today the commission did, however, issue "statements of intent" on matters dealing with density and low-cost housing.

He said the statements of intent were approved in order to give direction to Marin City residents in their review of the document.

Nixon said the commission, at the urging of about 50 residents at the meeting, indicated it favored seeing the community grow to about 6,000 persons and 2,000 dwelling units — including units already there.

Planning department staff had recommended a future population of 3,000 to 4,000 persons and 900 to 1,100 dwellings. The population now stands at about 1,600.

Nixon said the residents urged high-density development as a means of reducing the cost per home.

He said the commission also indicated it favored conversion of some or all of the 300 units of public housing to low and moderate-income family housing "if physically and economically realistic."

Nixon said the matter will next be considered Aug. 21 in Marin City. Adoption will be likely, he said.

Marinwood Survey Backs Purchase Of Open Space

The Marinwood Community Services District board last night was told by its open space committee that at least 54 per cent of the community favors acquisition of local land for open space.

"The citizens open space committee polled 824 residents and 89 per cent favored open space acquisition," according to Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager. She said that the 824 responses represented 60 per cent of the 1400 dwelling units in the community.

The doorbell-ringing survey also showed that 61 per cent of those polled are willing to pay $20 or more a year to preserve open space, she said. Another 12 per cent supported open space, but gave no indication of how much they were willing to pay to preserve it.

Mrs. Bolding said the board authorized the committee to continue its study of open space and report back at the district's Aug. 21 meeting.

The Marinwood Community Services District board also:

FIRE AGREEMENT — Agreed to provide structural fire protection to Upper Lucas Valley for $35,000.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Adopted a joint powers agreement with the county providing for a recreation program for senior citizens at a cost of $700.

Amendments To Pesticide Bill Are Wiped Out

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Senate Finance Committee has sent to the floor a bill setting up safety standards for pesticides after stripping the measure of amendments intended to give extra protection for farm workers.

The proposal by Assemblyman Bob Wood, R-Greenfield, was approved Monday on an 8-3 vote.

The measure attempts to resolve a long-standing jurisdictional feud between the state agriculture and health departments that has resulted in the death of pesticide control laws in the past.

Spokesmen for the United Farm Workers union have labeled the bill a "growers trick to circumvent meaningful pesticide control."

Johnson Heiress To Pay Alimony

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI)—Mrs. Mary Lea Johnson Ryan, an heiress to the Johnson & Johnson fortune, has been ordered to pay $650,000 to her ex-husband and another $350,000 to be held in trust for the couple's two children in a settlement under the state's new divorce law.

Mrs. Ryan sued for divorce on grounds of cruelty and desertion but Ryan, who has custody of the children, claimed his wife had deserted him. The court upheld Ryan under the law which defines desertion as staying away from the family home for 12 months.

Disability Officer In Car Charge

A San Francisco police officer who was awarded disability leave on the grounds that his work drove him to drink was arrested on suspicion of drunken driving in San Rafael yesterday.

Arthur Thomas Lord Jr., 45, hit a cab driven by Gerald Fredric Hoffman in the Safeway parking lot at First and B streets at 5:50 p.m. yesterday, according to police.

He then drove to Eva Street and Woodland Avenue where he was charged with drunken driving, police said.

The Retirement System Board in San Francisco voted 4-1 last Wednesday denying a request for a rehearing and backing the decision on Lord, who received a year's industrial disability leave with full pay last month.

He was booked into Marin County Jail in lieu of $360 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Pocketknife Is Basis For Fine

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—An Air Force National Guardsman who tried to board a commercial flight at Philadelphia International Airport with a pocketknife tucked in his shoe was fined $200 Monday by Magistrate Edward Naythons.

Edmund Claude Stone, 20, of Philadelphia, en route to Lackland Air Force Base at San Antonio, Tex., when he was arrested Sunday, said he was unaware that federal laws banning concealed weapons aboard commercial flights included pocketknives.

The knife was discovered when it triggered a metal detector at a boarding area.

Why Hatfield Has A Good Grip

GLADSTONE, Ore. (UPI)—Sen. Mark Hatfield, who recently turned 50, participated in a muscle strength test at a Seventh Day Adventist conference.

"You've got quite a grip," said a woman after Hatfield rated an above-average 135 pounds per square inch on the hand-squeezed dynamometer.

"In politics, I've got to," replied the Oregon Republican.

News Of Mercury Level Taken In Stride

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI)—Gov. Bob Scott, known for his sometimes unusual tastes in food, took the news of high mercury levels in raccoons along the lower Cape Fear River in stride Monday.

"I get mine from the Haw River, which is a tributary of the upper Cape Fear," said Scott whose dairy farm home is at Haw River in Almance County. "Actually, I'm a 'possum man myself," Scott added in a reference to his unkept promise two years ago to make 'possum stew out of the "most beautiful 'possum" he inherited from the National Hollerin' contest.

Drug-Trade Suspects Enter Innocent Pleas

Five men arrested during a $5,000 narcotics transaction Friday pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for Aug. 23.

A hearing on a motion to suppress the evidence was scheduled for the same date.

The five were arrested at a Forest Knolls home after an agent of the Berkeley police arranged to buy $3,500 in hashish oil and $1,440 in cocaine.

The oil was described as a rare form of hashish, so potent that it can be rubbed on the skin to produce its effect.

Six other persons, none from Marin, were arrested in a simultaneous raid in Berkeley in connection with the oil, which is produced by distillation and a filter process similar to that used in making heroin.

The oil, according to narcotics agents, rates 75 per cent on a potency scale as compared to 4 per cent for marijuana and 20 per cent for hashish.

The five are Robert Bertram Taylor, 24, of no known address, charged with selling hashish oil and cocaine and transporting marijuana; Greg Dennis Collin, 26, of Corte Madera, charged with possession and sale of cocaine; Jesse Arthur Stefas, 26, no known address, charged with sale of both drugs; Dennis Arthur Hecht, 27, of Forest Knolls, charged with growing marijuana and having it for sale, and Keith Durwood Perry, 27, of Fairfax, charged with sale of cocaine.

Developer Files Lawsuit Against Sausalito Council

Developer Joseph A. Duffel filed suit against the Sausalito City Council yesterday claiming the city had no right to withdraw approval of a use permit for a 380-unit cluster development known as Whiskey Springs.

Reactingto a referendum, the council on June 6 withdrew its two-month-old approval of an amended conditional use permit.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court on behalf of Duffel and the Duffel Financial and Construction Co. said the permit was not legally subject to referendum because it was an administrative, not a legislative, decision.

"The law is quite settled that a city council, when acting on an application for a conditional use permit, is acting in a nonleg islative capacity," Oakland attorney RobertC. Burnstein wrote in the suit.

Car-Cyle Crash: Sonoman Hurt

A Santa Rosa man was hospitalized following a motorcycle-automobile accident on Highway 101 south of the Highway 17 overcrossing yesterday, the California Highway Patrol said today.

James Mitchell Sr., 28, was reported in serious condition today in the Marin General Hospital intensive-care unit with a fractured skull.

Patrolmen said both vehicles were southbound at 11:30 a.m. when traffic slowed for closure of the right lane. Mitchell's motorcycle skidded 28 feet into the rear of an automobile driven by Karen Leslie Maxwell, 16, of 241 Coleman Drive, San Rafael, who was uninjured.

Marin Boys To Attend Camp

The new Central Marin Boys' Club, which has embarked on a $500,000 building fund campaign, has not allowed the lack of a roof to interfere with its summer camp program.

Some 15 boys will leave Marin July 19 for a two-week session at Camp Mendocino, a 2,000 acre facility in the redwood forest near Fort Bragg.

Another two-week camp session is scheduled in August, according to Barbara Parks, club secretary. More information may be obtained by contacting the club office at the Holiday Inn, room 113, 1010 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, she said.

Tiburon To Vote On Open Space

The Tiburon City Council at a special meeting last night approved a vote on a $1.25 million bond issue to buy open space within the city limits.

Although the council had earlier called for the bond vote, last night's action changed the language of the resolution calling for the Oct. 3 election.

The first bond issue called for the purchase of land for "open space, parks, and recreation purposes."

Parks were deleted from the second resolution. This was done to insure there would be no heavily used mass recreation facilities within Tiburon, according to Assistant City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert.

"We want the land for open space," he said. "There won't be any swings or playground equipment there."

The council will meet next on July 24.

HIRING

illa, Patricia McGinnis and others that Mrs. Rinne's present job would conflict with her proposed duties. Bonbright, a Pacific Gas and Electric Co. personnel executive, said most large corporations' personnel chiefs also were affirmative action officers.

Mrs. Rinne pointed out that "I make no appointments." She said she only recruits and screens candidates who then are hired by department heads.

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., chairman of the board of supervisors, stressed that Mrs. Rinne is responsible only to the county administrator — who is responsible only to the board. "The department head has to answer to us" for not complying with fair hiring standards, Arrigoni said.

"The personnel commission also will be watchdogs of the affirmative action officer," Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste said. Mrs. Padilla challenged whether the four-man, one-woman commission was representative of Marin's minorities.

In 1970, NOW complained to the state FEPC against the county's hiring practices. This resulted in April in a state survey and report calling for "affirmative action" on the county's part, but few specific criticisms.

Today's workshop was held on the personnel panel's and supervisors' proposed response to the state survey. No formal vote was taken.

Library Board Reappoints Head

The San Anselmo Library board last night reappointed Louis Yates as chairman for 1972-73 and named Rose Mary Gicker as board secretary.

The board changed its meeting date from the first Monday of each month to the first Wednesday, Mrs. Gicker said, adding that no meeting would be held in August.

The board also decided that all new library employees would be hired at the initial steps of the salary schedule, she said.

Park Committee Meets In September

According to Polly Smith, member of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, which acts as the advisory committee, meetings will be at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chamber in the Civic Center. The next meeting is Sept. 28. Any citizen, she said, may suggest agenda items.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Consolidated Edison Co. restored power today to up to 300,000 residents of Brooklyn it deliberately had blacked out for more than 13 hours to prevent an even more massive power failure.

The utility reported service was restored at 11:04 a.m. EDT to Bay Ridge and adjacent sections of Brooklyn with almost as many residents as the entire city of Birmingham, Ala.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Try this quiz today on the birthday of Yevgeny Yevtushenko (1933-), Russian poet:

T F 1. One of the bright young lights in modern world literature, young Yevtushenko first came to public notice in 1949 when he published a poem in a Soviet sports magazine.

T F 2. Born at Zima, a small village in the cold centrality of Siberia, near Lake Baykal, he drove a truck and tractor as a young man to help support his poor fatherless family.

T F 3. Only a mild critic of Soviet bureaucracy, unlike some of his contemporaries, Yevtushenko nevertheless lost his job on a Soviet youth magazine after being falsely accused of intrigue.

T F 4. On a recent visit to the U.S., he was not adverse to associating with rich and wealthy American capitalists, but he asked not to be called "Mister" but to be addressed as "Comrade."

ANSWERS

1. TRUE — Yevtushenko first published when he was 16.
2. TRUE — His father left home, deserting both mother and children.
3. TRUE — He was fired from the editorial board of "Yunost."
4. FALSE — He actually prefers being called "Zhenya."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Put Yourself In Foes' Chair To Determine The Best Action

As everybody knows, the way to find a lost horse is to close your eyes and think of where you would go if you were a horse. The same kind of reasoning takes place at the bridge table. You must close your eyes and think of what you would do if you were your opponent instead of yourself. If this sounds confusing, we can clear it up with a hand from the recent World Bridge Olympiad.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

A LOW SPADE

West led the queen of clubs, and East won with the ace. After some thought, East returned the three of spades, and West put up the king to force out dummy's ace.

Bobby Goldman, of the United States team, led a low heart from dummy, and East followed suit with the eight. Goldman's problem at this stage was whether to finesse with the queen or with the ten.

Goldman was sure that the spade return at trick two had been a singleton. He was also sure that West had no diamonds since if West had a singleton diamond he would have preferred that as his opening lead.

COUNTS OUT

West counted out, therefore, for six spades and no diamonds. Could West have a singleton low heart and six clubs? Goldman closed his eyes and decided that West would have bid on instead of passing thedouble of four hearts if he had started with 12 black cards and a singleton heart.

Since West had not actually bid, Goldman decided to play him for two hearts instead of a singleton. Declarer therefore tried a finesse with the queen of hearts rather than with the ten.

FINESSE SUCCEEDS

The finesse succeeded, and Goldman drew the rest of the trumps with the ace. He then gave up two diamonds and made his doubled contract.

Incidentally, East might have closed his eyes to think about his partner's hand. If he came to the right conclusion, East might have returned a low diamond at the second trick. South would lose a club, a diamond ruff and two diamonds.

ANSWER: Pass.

You can bid vigorously if somebody else opens the bidding, but you will mislead your partner if you open the bidding yourself with a hand of this kind.

German Booked In Auto Dealing

A man — said by police to deal only in stolen Mercedes-Benz automobiles — was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of grand theft and altering registration numbers on the cars.

Ernst Miller, 29, of Pantaschowa, Germany, was held in lieu of $20,000 bail to appear this afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said that Miller was either part of a gang dealing only in stolen Mercedes-Benz or was an operator on a large scale.

Brusatori said that Miller's downfall came when a Novato man answered a newspaper advertisement and was offered a 1971 Mercedes-Benz for $6,000 in cash or $1,000 less than list price. The man asked Officer Farrell Buckingham of the California Highway Patrol if the offer sounded legitimate.

On this tip, San Rafael police arrested Miller in the parking lot at Crocker Bank at 1203 Fourth Street, San Rafael, where the Novato man met him to arrange for financing.

Police reported that Miller had changed the car's serial numbers, but they traced it and found it had beenstolen from Reserve Insurance Co. of Los Angeles last December.

According to police, Miller dealt only in stolen Mercedes-Benz offering them for sale in newspaper advertisements after altering the serials. He would accept only cash and had a list of Bay Area prospects, police reported.

Miller had only his German driver's license for identification, and no immigration papers, police reported. They are checking with the Immigration Service today to see if he is in the country legally, according to reports.

Philadelphia Mayor Will Back Nixon

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Insisting it was not an endorsement, Democratic Mayor Frank Rizzo said Tuesday he will vote for President Richard Nixon in November and promised to "do anything and everything in my power to bring about the defeat of Sen. McGovern."

The mayor of the nation's fourth largest city said he would also "urge all my friends" to vote for Nixon's reelection and told a news conference he was "entertaining the thought" of organizing a Democrats for Nixon organization in Pennsylvania.

Rizzo, Philadelphia's former police commissioner, made it clear he would boycott the national Democratic ticket.

"If he (McGovern) is elected, I have a standing order to buy a ticket for Australia."

Calling Nixon "the greatest President this country has ever had," Rizzo said there was "no doubt in my mind the people of Philadelphia will never go for Sen. McGovern. This means he'll lose the state." He indicated he might formally endorse Nixon later.

"I look and see a clown like Jerry Rubin (the Yippie leader) and groups like SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) supporticg McGovern, and if I had people like that on my side, I wouldn't care if I ever won an election," said Rizzo.

Mutilated Body Of Mechanic Discovered

The mutilated body of a 28-year-old mechanic was found yesterday wrapped in a blanket in a dry creek bed near the Big Rock Ranch in Lucas Valley.

Coroner's Investigator Keith C. Craig said the skull of Peter Michael Noriega of San Francisco had been crushed and there were numerous stab wounds in the left part of his back.

Craig estimated he had been dead about 24 hours when a camper found his body at 10:30 a.m. near Lucas Valley Road.

The slaying was puzzling to sheriff's investigators today.

Sheriff's Lt. Earl Cummesky said Noriega was identified from prints taken when he was arrested for drunkenness in 1968, but otherwise the man had a clean record.

Cummesky said he was last seen alive about 12:30 p.m. Saturday as he watered plants at his home. However, where he was killed and why remained a mystery today.

He said the body was probably dumped in the valley after being battered elsewhere.

Noriega was single, but his father Pedro Noriega confirmed the fingerprint identification, according to Craig.

Two Emporium Stores Struck In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Department Store Employes Union called a strike today against department stores operated by the Emporium in San Francisco and Stonestown.

Mayor Joseph Alioto, who tried to settle the contract dispute, said a key issue is union shop — under which all employes would be required to join the union.

Other issues include wages, dental care, doubletime pay on Sundays and fringe benefits for those who work less than a full week.

The Emporium's Marin branch in the Northgate fashion mall is not affected by the strike since its 300 to 400 employees are not covered by union contracts.

The union represents 1,600 Emporium employes including those in the stock, marking, sales, credit and clerical departments.

Mayor Alioto had proposed a compromise of the union shop issue by which non-union employes covered by a 1968 agreement would not be affected.

Barney Speckman, assistant secretary of the San Francisco Labor Council, said labor had gone a step further. He said labor had offered an agency shop in which non-union members would be permitted but required to pay union dues, thus eliminating "free riders."

Speckman said, "There was absolutely no movement on the part of the employers."

Although the labor council authorized strikes against three major chains — Macy's and Joseph Magnin as well as the Emporium—the Emporium was the only one struck. The three stores have 4,500 employes in San Francisco of which 500 are non-union.

City Ultimatum To Rock Club Owner

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night ordered Lion's Share owner Michael Considine to meet with the city's street and traffic committee within 10 days to iron out parking problems generated by the popular night spot at 60 Red Hill Avenue.

About a dozen residents complained that the rock hall created a congested traffic and parking situation on nearby Forbes Avenue, according to John T. O'Rourke, assistant city engineer.

"Some people complained that customers leave the club to booze it up, smoke marijuana and urinate in the streets," he said.

Forbes Avenue residents also said some youths are dumping garbage and beer cans in their yards, he said.

He said a security guard hired by the club to keep the peace "has served only to drive people into the residential area."

Considine has until October to come up with 21 off-street parking spaces within 150 feet of the establishment as required by the municipal code, O'Rourke said.

The commission will again deal with the matter at its Aug. 7 meeting, he added.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

ZONING — Recommended to the city council that the zoning ordinance be amended to allow rezoning to planned development status without seeing a detailed plan for a proposed development.

REZONING — Denied Ray Dell'Osso's request for the rezoning of a parcel at 20 Sequoia Drive from residential district to duplex district.

PLANTS — Denied an application for a use permit by James Carstarphen who wanted to sell fuschia and begonia plants outside his home at 170 Spring Grove Avenue.

PARKING — Approved John Gay's application for a parking variance for a proposed liquor shop at 275 Greenfield Avenue. Gay will provide five parking spaces rather than the 13 required by the municipal code.

SUBDIVISION — Denied Dennis B. Cannings's application for a two-lot subdivision at 30 Oakwood Avenue because the property slope was too steep and the development "would have been incompatible with the neighboring residential area," according to O'Rourke.

MORATORIUM — Set a public hearing on a proposed moratorium on zoning and subdivision for 8 p.m. Aug. 21 in city hall.

Banking Scheme Charges Dropped

Charges resulting from a deposit and withdrawal scheme at a Novato bank in 1970 have been dismissed against Albert Vierra Alves, 44, of Novato, because of lack of speedy prosecution.

Judge Peter Allen Smith of Marin Municipal Court dropped 2-year-old counts of grand theft and possessing a fraudulent check on the grounds Alves, who had been in prison on another charge during the past two years, was denied a speedy trial.

According to the allegations filed against him, Alves deposited a check for $8,545, then withdrew $4,000 in cashier's and travellers' checks and $300 cash on the fraudulent deposit in May 1970. He was arrested on a warrant two months ago.

Beer And Burial By Hell's Angels

By MARY LEYDECKER

More than 100 Hell's Angels and their friends roared into San Rafael yesterday to bury one they claimed as their own, but police, who had stood by expecting the worst, reported the motorcyclists left town without incident.

The occasion was the burial of Robert Sullivan Morris, former Marin resident who was killed Thursday in a motorcycle accident on Bohemian Highway in Sonoma County.

The 21-year-old Morris died after he passed a pickup truck just before a curve which he failed to make, according to the California Highway Patrol.

About 50 of his Hell's Angel friends as well as Morris's family sat quietly during a conventional funeral in Santa Rosa, according to a mortuary spokesman. Others lounged outside the mortuary until the service was over.

Then the colorfully clad motorcyclists, many of them with their girl friends hanging on behind, revved up their bikes and rode in noisy groups to San Rafael. On their way they were joined by another contingent in Petaluma.

Some rode in cars or trucks, sometimes with their big motorcycles loaded in the back.

As they roared down Fifth Avenue in San Rafael to Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, youngsters came out to watch, much as if a parade were going by. Police in patrol cars along the route were unobtrusive, but very much present.

In the cemetery the Angels, most of whom came well supplied with cans of beer, gathered around the grave dug by cemetery employees. (The Angels had been turned down on their request to dig it themselves.)

Huge wreaths and floral displays on stands stood around the grave, and many of the young womenand even some of the motorcyclists carried a single red rose or carnation in their hands. The girls mostly wore jeans or long dresses, and the Angels tattered jackets bore the inscription of their organization and often the town they came from.

After two or three of the Hell's Angels eulogized their friend, the Angels filled the grave themselves, adding beer cans to the dirt.

When the rites were over and cemetery employees rushed around picking up dozens and dozens of empty beer cans in preparation for another graveside service, the Angels seemed reluctant to leave.

Some of the rode their cycles around and around the cemetery office building. Others milled through the graveyard littering it with more beer cans.

By this time, a long cortege of about 25 cars led by a hearse and another funeral car lined Fifth Avenue, waiting to get into the cemetery.

Some of the motorcyclists roared out through the line of cars but others sat on their bikes, not saying much to each other. Pretty soon, after a few shouts and with the girls all aboard on back, they lined up at the entrance.

Cemetery officials waved in the waiting cortege, and the motorcyclists still in the cemetery waited respectfully, not breaking into the long line of slow moving cars.

Children in the cars, attending the funeral of a San Rafael woman, peered at the cyclists.

Quickly, it was all over. Fifth Avenue was quiet again and the cemetery peaceful. Only an overflowing box of empty beer cans bore evidence that anything unusual had taken place.

Occupants Of Barges Get Notice

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday ordered the occupants out of two rundown buildings on the Sausalito waterfront until they are brought up to city standards.

Judge Henry J. Broderick gave the occupants of 14 apartments built on the remnants of World War II barges 10 days to vacate the property at the foot of Humboldt Street.

The order came after two days of testimony about the condition of the apartments built over the water 21 years ago. Broderick inspected them himself Friday.

The barges, the hulls of which have long disappeared, have been the subject of repeated warnings by city building and fire officials and the county health department for several years. The city moved last month to oust all the residents immediately to protect them from unsafe conditions.

The judge temporarily barred the eviction until he could hold a hearing, but ruled in the city's favor after hearing testimony from the fire chief and public works director.

Chief Robert L. Halon, ticking off a list of about 10 conditions he considered unsafe, said, "I would not live there under any condition in its present state."

Byron Edwards of Sonoma told the judge he has tried to refurbish the units, but the city has denied him a building permit.

38 Candidates Fail To Report

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. says 38 of the 791 candidates seeking state and judicial offices in the June 6 primary failed to file required campaign contribution reports.

"These candidates will be given a reasonable period of time to file their statements and by the end of next week I will announce plans for legal action against candidates who still refuse to disclose where they received their money," Brown declared Monday in a prepared statement.

Brown also said additional candidates filed reports "so vague or incomplete" that they cannot be accepted until they are amended.

Sonoma State Will Share In Science Grant

Sonoma State College and Santa Rosa Junior College jointly have received a $51,200 grant from the National Science Foundation for a project on environmental education.

Dr. Paul Benko of the Sonoma State biology department will serve as project director assisted by Robert Rubin of the Santa Rosa Junior College biology department.

The program will develop five video tapes dealing with unique environmental conditions and problems of northbay counties. A team of faculty members from both colleges will also hold a series of five community workshops aimed at involving residents in local environmental problems.

Workshops are expected to be held in the fall in Novato, Santa Rosa, Lakeport, Ukiah and Napa. Orgnizations or clubs interested in participating in the workshops may contact Charles Rhinehart of the Sonoma State education department.

Blaze Controlled

CAMARILLO (UPI)—A brush fire near Camarillo State Hospital charred 80 acres Monday before it was controlled by a force of 60 firefighters.

Why The Secrecy Over Drug Prices?

The California Pharmaceutical Association, with a powerful lobby in Sacramento, has won the battle to keep information on the prices of prescription drugs from the public.

Last month, by a vote of 18 yes to 38 no, the State Assembly defeated Assembly Bill 217 by Assemblyman Harvey Johnson, D-El Monte. The bill would have required drug stores to post the prices of the most commonly sold prescription drugs so that potential customers could compare prices and shop for the best buys.

At one point, Johnson's bill appeared to have a chance. Johnson even tried watering down the bill to make it more palatable to the opposition. The original bill called for mandatory posting of prices of 100 most commonly sold drugs, as determined by the Stae Pharmacy Board. He changed this to "permissive" posting of prices. The provision that druggists must give prices over the phone or in person on a customer's request was left intact.

Instead of winning votes, the watered-down bill lost votes and went down the drain by a big margin.

Up to the time of the vote, Johnson said everyone seemed to be in favor of the bill except for the pharmacists and the majority of the Assembly. The vote showed the power of the pharmacy lobby. Johnson noted that the lobby against the bill was one of the strongest he has seen in his nine years in the Legislature.

Supporting the legislation was Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael. Not only did Bagley support the bill, but he also had authored a similar bill which died in the Assembly Health Committee. Bagley's bill would have permitted pharmacists to advertise prescription drug prices.

Both of these bills were dsigned to permit comparison shopping by giving the public enough information on which to base their judgments. The campaign to shake loose some of this information has been going on for years.

Several years ago, when the State Pharmacy Board considered the bill adopting regulations to prohibit advertising of prescription drugs, the then State Consumer Counsel's office lamented the fact that the consumer gets too little information, only a "trickle" at best.

The public still gets no more than a trickle. It is regrettable that the Johnson and Bagley bills, to increase the flow of information, were killed by strong and persistent opposition from the pharmacy lobby.

The industry may be opposing the bills in good conscience and may have sound reasons for keeping prescription drug prices secret. But those reasons are far from apparent, and the opposition's motives become suspect.

Filled Vacuum

Nature abhors a vacuum. At least, so goes the old aphorism, which we believe. We have seen it at work in our own yard and garden. A neighbor disposes of two cats that made our garden a playpen. Within a week two strange cats have replaced them. Another example might be the skunks. Evidently skunks figure our place makes a dandy home for one or two. One year long ago we borrowed a trap from the Humane Society and caught three or four before we came to realize that we had a delightful skunk apartment under our back porch. And a good apartment does not stay vacant long.

Most of nature's creatures are territorial and achieve a loose balance, neither a vacuum nor overabundance.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

More Lobbyists Than You Think

(During Earl G. Waters' vacation, his column is being written by his guests. Today's column is by Ben D. Martin, general manager of California Newspaper Publishers Association.)

By BEN D. MARTIN

Have you talked to your friendly neighborhood lobbyist lately?

You have one, you know. . .or two, or ten. Depends on how involved you are in affairs of your community.

If you only exist, you've got one. You probably help pay his salary and expenses. No need for you to be a labor chief, oil baron, business tycoon or chairman of one of the ecology groups to be associated with a lobbyist.

THE TERM HAS a bad name, perhaps partly due to newspapers too often linking the term with "special interests." But if you're helping pay for some, they can't be all bad. Can they?

Do you own property? Your taxes help hire lobbyists for cities, counties, school districts and scores of other public agencies, ranging from part-time to extensive operations with a dozen staff members.

Sometimes these people are on opposition sides of legislative battles. The lobbyists your county hires are supporting one "tax reform" bill in Sacramento, and opposing another which is supported by lobbyists for the cities.

WHEN YOU BOUGHT your property, chances are somebody earned a commission, part of which helps maintain a lobby operation. Lobbyists represent the people who loaned you the money, who searched the title, who insured the property.

It's not at all infrequent that lobbyists paid by you disagree on an issue.

Last time you paid a bill for medicine, you helped pay a lobbyist who recently killed a bill which would have let drug stores advertise their prices. When you bought this newspaper, you helped cover the cost of a lobbyist who tried to convince the legislature that drug prices are getting out of line and that those drug stores willing to operate on lower profit margins should be allowed to tell you what they're doing.

IF YOU HAVE kids in school, you may feel safer knowing that some lobbyists are looking after the best interests of teachers, while others are concerned with administrators and still others lobby for the school board.

So, you see, lobbying may not be all bad. Matter of fact, the right to lobby or to "petition government for a redress of grievances" is guaranteed you in the First Amendment of the Bill of Rights, in the same paragraph which gives you freedom of speech, religion, assembly, and freedom of the press.

Even though lobbying has long been recognized as a necessary and vital part of the democratic process —it insures that all sides of a conflict are presented prior to a decision-making — maybe we're overdoing it.

MAYBE BUSINESSMEN are too worried that legislators are after them; maybe labor doesn't need 34 registered lobbyists, not counting a score more of public employee lobbyists. Maybe cities and counties should feud at home and not in Sacramento. Maybe locally elected school boards should run the schools so teachers and administrators wouldn't have to maintain lobby operations to oppose the school board lobby.

Maybe the Legislature should ask itself if this state is in such bad shape that legislators propose more than 5000 changes of law every year, and whether more firm and prompt decisions might not save everybody money, time and worry.

Or, maybe this is all wishful thinking. We're probably stuck with growing government and its growing private and semi-public satellites.

If that sad fact be true, who but each of us must accept the blame?

"That about wraps it up here in Miami Beach, fellas! Now, march with me and I'll march with you, and so we shall march together. . . !"

Sad Display On Fourth of July

Our so-called Mill Valley "celebration" on the 4th was beyond comprehension. Only an ill advised City Council would have allowed such an exhibition, particularly after the sad experience the previous 4th.

The display put on by the "Patriots of 1972" was a poor emulation of our Founding Fathers- the Patriots of 1776. It should never be allowed again. We taxpayers and business people should see to that.

I am reminded of the writings of Ruskin: "The streets are no longer made for the passing of happy people, but the drains for the discharge of a tormented mob."

Fluoridated Water Would Benefit All

I feel compelled to respond to Mrs. Franklin's Letter to the Editor regarding fluoridation which appeared in the I-J on Tuesday, July 11.

There is not an excess of environmental fluoride in Marin County. In fact, the level of fluoride in Marin County water is at one-tenth part per million. The purpose of fluoridating the water, which has no effect on hardness or taste, is to raise this amount to the beneficial level of one part per million.

In addition, there is no evidence from any recognized medical journal that fluoride in concentration of one part per million causes any systemic ill effect. Concentrations at eight parts per million can cause discoloration of teeth.

In regards to patients with kidney problems, the medical literature indicates that fluoride, as well as calcium, magnesium, etc., must all be removed from the water when the patient is under dialysis where the circulation of water is up to ten times the normal human intake.

Fluoridation of Marin County water, at a cost of less than 15 cents per person per year, will reduce dental decay in children up to 65 per cent and up to 20 per cent in adults. Its too bad the issue lost by only 84 votes twelve years ago. I wish I would have saved some of the money I've paid to dentists over those twelve years.

San Francisco has had the benefit of fluoridated water for twenty years. Why can't we?

LET'S GET ON WITH THIS GREAT PUBLIC HEALTH MEASURE!

Death Penalty Is A Deterrent

Re: capital punishment. To Mr. Urquhart (C. Roy Urquhart's letter to editor appeared on July 6), sympathy on the loss of his aunt. However, he misses two significant points when he proposes limits on capital punishment.

The first, since the person has already demonstrated the desire and the ability to kill, he must be killed to eliminate any possibility that he will kill again . . . whether it's a prison guard, another inmate or God forbid, another aunt, mother, wife, child or other innocent victim. Punishment must be swift so he cannot kill again.

Secondly, capital punishment is a deterrent . . . Most acts of violence are premeditated and therefore there is a weighing of the consequences.

In today's society where the bulk of criminals are continually turned loose on society, where are the consequences? In addition the taxpayer should not have to pay the costs of long term prison confinement.

Seminary Lauds I-J Coverage

This letter is written to commend you and your fine staff for your courteousness, cooperation and honesty in your dealings with Golden Gate Seminary. I am writing, more particularly, to commend a particular member of your reporting staff, Pat Balmes, who has written what we at Golden Gate consider some outstanding features for the Women's Section on programs and people at the Seminary. The latest appeared in the Tuesday, July 11, 1972 edition of the Independent Journal, and Pat told the story with her normal high degree of accuracy. Her stories have all been well-written. She is an unusually charming and courteous person and a pleasure to talk with in an interview situation, as a number of our people have expressed.

She has, each time, made an extra effort to understand the inner-workings of the particular operation she is researching. As a result, I feel, as do many others here, she has communicated her information quite well. Numerous people both on and off the campus ahve commented on her fine work.

So often, reporters do outstanding work and go unrecognized. There are many other fine people on your staff. Your church page editors, cityside people, Marin Magazine, and photographers have all been amiable and a pleasure to work with. I simply wish to say "Thank you."

McGovern, The Underdog Will Draw Sympathy Vote

MIAMI BEACH — Geared up by the old guard and with the help of a large part of the media, the doomsday machine was rolling long before the outcome of the convention became a certainty. It will now be zipped up with lights, bells, amplifying devices, fireworks, all to pronounce the inevitable defeat of Sen. George McGovern.

Like a litany the catalogue of his all-embracing opposiiton is almost daily recited. Labor is against him. Big Business is against him. Small business is against him. The jews are against him. The ethnics, the Catholics are against him. The farmers are against him. The party pros are against him.

THIS CAN HAVE only one effect. It makes McGovern the underdog — the under underdog — and that, as recent history has shown, generates a sympathy vote. Most Americans still have a measure of independence despite all the pressures of bigness and they will react by saying, "You aren't going to tell me who to vote against when I get into that voting booth." The Republicans fearful of overconfidence, should caution their allies on the right, inclucing the Democrats already on the starting line to form those "Democrats For Nixon" clubs, that this is not the way to help the great crusade.

The media has a lot to answer for, and I confess my own share of the guilt. We were writing in January that Sen. Edmund Muskie was the front runner. Democrats in Congress and among the big-money contributors were fast to keep abreast of the front runner with their endorsements.

The front-runner label was surely no service to the unfortunate Muskie who began to dissolve in a mist of tears and falling snowflakes in New Hampshire.

MORE SERIOUS was our failure to comprehend the yeasty new political forces and the part they would play in the 1972 presidential campaign. However broad a band they are in the political spectrum, they turned out in the primaries to give McGovern the edge in 10 of those primaries.

What happened to Muskie, to Hubert Humphrey, to the respectable center? The answer is here in this convention which in that stalest of tags looks like the cast of "Hair" for anyone over 60 — you can make that 50. They are as alien as a tribute out of the jungle.

But, however jaundiced the view of the elders and old guard, they represent the new pushing their way into the political process. They are a thousand leagues away from the old guard whose topmost barricade here is manned by the intractable figure of George Meany presiding over the power and the money bags of the AFL-CIO like a curmudgeonly banker saying no to a rash new loan applicant.

DESPITE ALL the pushing and prodding from the federal government, Meany's building trades unions — he began in the plumbers' union — have hardly breached their racist barriers. Apprenticeships for blacks and chicanos are scarce.

The system of statewide primaries that cast up McGovern is mad, bound to produce accidents and sorry mishaps. But, after all, McGovern did get 5,305,218 votes with his total in New York omitted, since New York is apparently still unable to come up with a figure. Humphrey, it should be recorded, was close with 5,245,461; George Wallace had 3,617,282, and Muskie 1,875,973. If nothing else, that shows how deep are the divisions in the party.

THIS MAY NOT be a revolution whose time has come. In view of the frozen structure of the economy and the political system it may be too late for a peaceful change in response to the newcomers who have moved into the dominating position in the Democratic Party. Or, more likely, it may be too far in advance of the great, troubled, uncertain, volatile mass.

The doomsayers can be proved right in November. The odds are probably with them. But given the nature of the times, the swift upward and downward movements of the barometer, anything can happen and, in that classic phrase, it probably will. Meanwhile — the favorite transition word of the electronic commentators — it might be well to take at least a second look at what has gone on here.

ERWIN D. CANHAM

McGovern No Weakling But The Odds Are Against Him

MIAMI BEACH — Why did George McGovern, who six months ago was given so very little chance of achieving the presidential nomination, sweep to his resounding victory at the Democratic Convention?

It has been made clear at this convention that a superb organizing job was done. It was done in the primaries, and with the delegations chosen by other means, and in maneuvers over the seating of contested delegations. It was done because discontents exist in America which were not sufficiently recognized and responded to by the orthodox politicans. It was done because George McGovern is an attractive, effective political leader, who brought together a potent campaigning team.

ANYBODY WHO THINKS George McGovern is a weakling — and I have met many people who held this view — had better change their minds. His chief policy positions need refinement and precising. As he has stated them in the past, they are wide open to attack. But there is no question that reformative action needs to be taken in the fields on which he has concentrated: Vietnam, tax reform, welfare reform, defense spending. Great public concern exists in these areas.

If Senator McGovern is able credibly to toughen up his program, without losing too much of the support of the unorthodox, zealous, and radical elements which have helped nominate him, his chances in November will be more realistic.

AS THINGS STAND now, however, an outstandingly successful nominee has rarely emerged with so much openly expressed doubt about his capacity to win in November. The disaffection of the Old South was to be expected. Ten states might as well be written off. But the election will not be decided there. Texas, California, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio and such states turn the tide. There, and elsewhere, the presently apparent disaffection of organized labor with Senator McGovern is very serious. Many old guard leaders are saying: "We'll do the best we can this time, and pick up the pieces in 1976."

It isn't a very exhilarating way to start a national campaign. But the extraordinary turnover which has brought George McGovern so far could continue.

He and his team intend to make it so. They will organize, advertise, mount a massive get-out-the-vote campaign, conciliate, formulate policies, and seek to maximize the forces which have brought them so far.

HOT ON THE HEELS of the nomination, Senator McGovern received two blows, not unexpected but disappointing. Sen. Edward Kennedy made very firm his determination not to accept the vice-presidential nomination. Gov. George Wallace ended all rumors that he might run again as a third-party candidate. Both moves help President Nixon. Governor Wallace may have taken enough votes to let Senator McGovern slip in several states. And Senator Kennedy would have brought great strength to the ticket.

Now a great deal will turn on three factors: The extent of the discontents and the sentiment for drastic change which exist in the country, the further effectiveness of the McGovern organization, the kind of campaign President Nixon wages.

IT WOULD BE FOOLISH to underestimate Senator McGovern's capabilities. But it is equally blind to ignore his great difficulties. The party remains divided. The Nixon campaign is almost certain to be an effective, hard-hitting one. If an agreement on Vietnam is reached before election day, it should help the President. If the economy is in good shape, it will be a major advantage.

But if the Nixon forces decide to run a tough campaign, boring in on Senator McGovern with highly personal criticism in the manner used by Vice-President Agnew, it seems to me that Senator McGovern could gain great advantage. The forces which helped nominate him would be greatly stimulated by a hard-line campaign. Running as President and world leader, Richard Nixon could gain great advantage. It is bound to be a campaign of great contrasts, and an exceptionally difficult one to forecast.

Sea Of Homes Anticipated In Rohnert Park Flatlands

It doesn't take much imagination to look at the open fields around Rohnert Park and see what the future will bring — a sea of new houses, apartments and businesses.

Although the 10-year-old city is pushing only the 7,000 population mark at this point, it threatens to replace Petaluma as the growth center of Sonoma County. With the annual limit of 500 new units in force in Petaluma, the developers have little choice but to move north to the flat, easily developed land around Rohnert Park.

OFFICIALS FROM the Rohnert Park and Cotati City Councils met last week with both the Cotati and Petaluma School District boards. The aim was to plan a strategy to coordinate growth without damaging schools. That now familiar phrase of "controlled growth" was bandied about by both city and school officials, but nothing concrete was achieved.

Perhaps the group didn't take the problem as seriously as it could have because at this point it's only a potential. That attitude may have quickly changed if they had attended the Rohnert Park Planning Commission meeting the following night where applications totaled 2,476 new living units on the agenda.

THE COMMISSION routinely approved three developments of single family homes and apartments that will bring an additional 468 living units to the city in the very near future.

Looming in the background, however, is the massive plan by Norma Spivock to develop a 250-acre area north of the city's golf course. It would bring a total of 2,008 units including 250 to 300 homes, 868 apartment units, 240 townhouse units and an immense mobile home park with 600 units covering 80 acres.

THOSE WHO think that concern for crowded schools and other problems attached to rapid growth is premature would have probably changed their minds had they been at that one meeting.

Some Rohnert Park residents and officials snidely hold East Petaluma up as a striking example of problems uncontrolled growth can bring, but the ridiculed shoe could be on the other foot very shortly. The growth limitation policies in Petaluma, Livermore and other cities have not yet been tested in court and could be shot down, but at least an effort has been made.

Stop-Gap Measure Passed For Indians

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has received for his signature a bill that would extend for 90 days a law which allows the federal government to press claims against the states and private persons on behalf of Indians.

The bill was passed by both the House and Senate Monday. Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., said the "stop-gap" measure would give Congress enough time to decide whether it wanted to extend the law with permanent legislation.

Neiman-Marcus Founder To Retire

DALLAS (UPI)—Edward S. Marcus, son of the founder of the Neiman-Marcus speciality stores and developer of the firm's famed Christmas catalog, says he will retire from merchandising this fall.

Marcus is board chairman of the stores and has worked for the organization since 1928. He said Monday he is retiring because of real estate investment commitments that keep him too busy for retailing.

How About Joint Convention For Democrats And GOP?

MIAMI BEACH — It could have been worse. As Tuesday night's marathon session droned on into Wednesday morning, and as the sun came up over Miami Beach with the delegations demanding roll calls on every platform issue, it suddenly occured to many people that the Democratic National Convention might not be over in time for the Republicans to hold their convention on Aug. 21.

There was strong possibility that when the Republicans arrived the Democrats would still be here, and a new floor fight would be started to find who legally had a right to the seats.

AS A MATTER of fact, while the battles raged on the floor, a group of Republican and Democratic officials met behind the podium to see if they could work out a compromise on the seating, so that the Republicans could hold their convention as scheduled, and the Democrats could continue their debates on women's rights and abortions.

It was a bitter meeting with the Republicans claiming they should get the hall for themselves and the Democrats insisting they couldn't adjourn their convention until the platform had been accepted.

REPUBLICAN CHAIRMAN Robert Dole pointed out that the bylaws of the Republican Party read that the Republicans had to have their own convention and could not share it with another political party.

Democratic Chairman Lawrence O'Brien said that if his convention continued through Aug. 21, and at that moment it looked like it would, he would insist the Democrats stay where they were and not give up their seats. "We were here first," O'Brien said. "Besides if you had gone to San Diego, like you should have, you wouldn't have had the problem."

Dole said, "Any party that starts a convention on July 10 and can't finish it by Aug. 21 doesn't deserve to run a presidential candidate."

O'BRIEN REPLIED that he would gladly put it to a vote of the Democratic convention whether they wanted to share their seats with the Republicans.

Dole insisted that the Republicans be allowed to vote on the issue as well.

O'Brien said that since they had not been seated they had no legal right to vote.

The mayor of Miami Beach, who wasn't sure he could handle two conventions at one time, suggested a compromise. The Republicans would be seated at the Democratic convention and would conduct their business while the Democrats were calling the roll. Since it took two hours before the Democratic state delegations could poll their people on each issue, the Republicans would have plenty of time to nominate President Nixon.

O'BRIEN AGREED but Dole turned the proposal down flat and said he didn't want his clean-cut Republican delegates to be seen on television with people with long hair and blue jeans.

Fortunately by 7 o'clock in the morning the Democratic Party finally adopted its platform, and the question of the Democrats and Republicans sharing the convention center became academic.

But it was close, much closer than anybody will admit. Even now when President Nixon thinks about it he has nightmares.

Rock Group Will Face Drug Count

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Six members of the rock group, "Sly and the Family Stone," were arrested on drug charges early today by sheriff's deputies acting on a tip from the California Highway Patrol and state narcotics agents.

Deputies said they pulled over the group's motor home on Santa Monica Boulevard, searched the vehicle and found about two pounds of marijuana and two vials of dangerous drugs.

The suspects were identified as: the group's leader, Sylvester "Sly" Stewart, 26, San Francisco; James Brown, 27, also of San Francisco; Frederick Stewart, 24, Los Angeles; Anthony Logan, 29, Los Angeles; April Silva, 21, and her sister, Kathleen, 19, both of North Hollywood.

Operation Without A Transfusion

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A Jehovah's Witness has survived an open-heart operation despite refusing to permit surgeons to give him blood transfusions, it was disclosed Monday.

Dr. Elias Hanna, chief of cardiac surgery at St. Mary's Hospital, said the operation was performed late last month on Lewis E. Carey, 54, a railroad conductor from San Jose, Calif.

Hanna said an 11-man team of doctors performed the operation in less than an hour and a quarter.

Carey, now reported in good condition, refused to permit a transfusion because it was against his fundamentalist faith.

"It was quite risky,'(Hanna said. "We were really taking a big chance."

He described his patient as doing "phenomenally well for all the work we did on him."

The surgeon said the operation represented a sizable jolt to Carey's heart. He explained that three arteries serving his heart were "bypassed" with three fresh arteries transplanted from his upper thigh.

This type of operation, Hanna said, usually requires from three to 12 pints of blood for transfusion.

Carey's original arteries had become clogged during a long illness which reached a point where only 35 per cent of the normal blood flow trickled through, Hanna said.

The doctor said the speed of the operation made it unnecessary to use blood transfusions.

"We obviously had to cut down on the amount of blood lost, and we did it," Hanna said.

950-Pound Bull Escapes But Dies

CINCINNATI (UPI)—A 950-pound bull escaped as it was being unloaded from a truck at a packing company Monday and dented four police cars and knocked one man down before it was captured 20 minutes later.

After police managed to get a lasso around the bull's neck, the excited creature dropped dead, apparently of a heart attack.

Warning To Campers: Be Wary Of Animals Carrying Bubonic Plague

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A state public health official warned today that campers should be wary of diseases, including the bubonic plague, which may be transmitted by ticks, fleas, mosquitoes or wild animals in vacation areas.

Dr. Richard Emmons, medical epidemiologist in the department's Bureau of Communicable Diseases, cited a recent incident in which a hiker in the Mt. Whitney area was bitten by an ailing golden mantle ground squirrel.

The animal died later and was found to have the bubonic plague.

Emmons said other rodents, including chipmunks, and their fleas may harbor the plague in many wilderness areas of California.

Rabies occurs in most counties in the state in wild animals such as raccoons, foxes, bats and skunks Emmons said.

"So far in 1972, more than 125 animals in California have been found to have rabies," Emmons declared.

"Mosquitoes may transmit encephalitis-producing viruses, particularly in the central valley of the state. Use of insect repellents and avoiding mosquito-infested areas is advisable," Emmons said.

Emmons repeated a department warning concerning ticks.

"Ticks may carry several severe diseases and campers should learn to avoid tick-invested areas or to check themselves frequently to remove ticks before they become attached to the skin," the official stated.

He noted the case of a 2 ½-year-old Contra Costa County girl who was paralyzed until a tick which had become attached to her scalp was found and removed.

Five cases of Colorado tick fever have been reported this year and one case of Rocky Mountain spotted fever was discovered in a camper who was bitten by ticks in Mono County in March.

"These disease problems are generally most common in the summer months. Vacationers are at a special risk and should take extra care to prevent exposure," Emmons said.

Report Shows Mine Had Met Safety Requirements

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI)— The Sunshine Silver Mine, where 91 workers died in a disastrous fire, had complied with federal safety requirements, the Bureau of Mines said today.

The Bureau said the mine exceeded requirements for fire-fighting equipment and selfcontained breathing apparatus in a report prepared for the opening of today's hearing by the Department of Interior.

The hearing will delve into the causes and origin of the May 2 fire in the nation's largest and richest silver mine.

"Although the federal metal and nonmetal safety standards do not require self-rescue respirators in metal and nonmetal mines," the preliminary report said, "they were available at each active working station and other places in the mine."

It said the firm had a total of 140,000 gallons of water available for use in controlling fires and, in addition, had automatic fire doors and other fire fighting equipment available.

The report said the fire was first discovered at 11:35 a.m. May 2, while 173 men were working in the mine. Eighty reached the surface within a short time of the report and two men were found alive seven days later at the 4,800 foot level of the more than one mile deep mine. It was nine days after the fire broke out that the last of the bodies were found.

The fire smouldered in the mine for over a month before it was controlled sufficiently to allow Bureau of Mines officials to begin an underground investigation of the fire.

Bureau officials said the final report would include all evidence found on the possible cause of the fire which was believed to have broken out initially in old workings of the mine.

U2 Successor Sets Records

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The successor to the famous U-2 spy plane has set records for time and distance traveled by flying 15,000 miles in 10-1-2 hours.

The cruising speed of 3,000 feet a second was faster than a rifle bullet.

The manufacturer, Lockheed Aircraft, said today the rarely talked about SR71 cruised at three times the speed of sound at altitudes above 80,000 feet or more than 15 miles high.

The SR71 replaced the U-2 as the main American highflying recognizance plane in 1966. The plane set its records April 26, 1971, by flying back and forth across the United States before returning to Beal Air Force Base, Calif. The distance covered was equal to a flight from San Francisco to Paris and back without stopping.

Planning Group Rezones Fifth Part Of Preserve

The fifth and final section of the county's sprawling agricultural preserve was recommended yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission for A-60 zoning, limiting development to one dwelling per 60 acres.

The commission's 5-2 vote to rezone some 40,000 acres around the tiny farming community of Nicasio ends nearly six months of deliberation resulting in reclassification of about 210,000 acres.

Commissioners John F. West and Margaret B. Azevedo — both outspoken supporters of agricultural rezoning — voted against the motion, which he had made and she had seconded, because of several amendments.

Commissioner George P. Leonard, who has opposed rezoning at every turn, supported it yesterday after the series of amendments.

Leonard lost, however, in a bid to exclude about 2,000 acres from the preserve and from its low-density zoning.

About 10 property owners with land between Nicasio Reservoir and Big Rock urged exclusion from the preserve arguing their land was not suitable for agricultural use.

Leonard agreed, noting much of the land is covered by trees and dense underbrush and to rezone it from its present two-acre lot minimums would be unfair.

Leonard drew support from Commissioner Kenneth G. Stevens but the five others teamed up to overrule his bid to exclude the lands.

Commissioner Azevedo, leading the attack on Leonard's move said such rezoning was required by state law.

The law — the Williamson Act — states that lands within the preserve must be zoned in a manner "compatible" with the agricultural industry, which in Marin is mostly dairying and livestock raising.

The planning department, with the concurrence of a majority of the commission, has designated the A-60 (one dwelling per 60 acres) zoning to be the most compatible.

The A-60 zoning — with several exceptions for higher density A-10, 20, 40 — now dominates the preserve which stretches from the northwest corner of the county to Novato on the southeast and Muir Beach on the southwest.

While Leonard failed to have the 2,000 acres removed, he fared better in a move to have portions of the land zoned to allow higher densities.

Cirilo Gonzales, who has subdivided a portion of his land west of Big Rock, won his bid to have much of the remaining acreage rezoned to A-10. It had been recommended for A-60 and A-20.

The higher density zoning was spearheaded by Leonard and Commissioner William Lynch, who in the past has been an ardent supporteC&of A-60. Lynch said he supported the higher density on the Gonzales property because of its nearness to similarly zoned land.

Another action urged by Leonard and Lynch was to exclude temporarily the 1,117-acre Big Rock and 673-acre Foster ranches from the rezoning pending further study.

The commission set Sept. 11 for a rezoning hearing on the Big Rock and Foster ranches whose owners, through San Rafael attorney Roderick P. Martinelli, have proposed A-10, 20 and 60 zoning for the land, located west of Big Rock.

Wagstaff's Complaint Too Late On Water-Oriented Development

Corte Madera Town Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff waxed indignant last night over the public's lack of access to water, but his indignation came too late to stop a townhouse development that will block 328 feet of Corte Madera Creek from public view.

The town council had been asked to adopt the final map of a 14-unit condominium on 1.4 acres on Lucky Drive, a formality since the project had already been approved by the council, the planning commission and the board of design.

To be built by Western Development Corp. the two-story townhouses will have decks fronting over the water, and be built in two blocks with a 66-foot gap between them. Of the total acreage, 25 per cent is underwater.

"I am getting more and more militant about this access to water," complained Councilman Wagstaff. "It's ridiculous, we're losing it. The fact is we're selling off our ability to create vistas to some of the esthetic things we came to the county for in the first place."

Robert Carmody, the project developer, said there was public access 200 feet to the west of the property where Redwood High School students launch their canoes.

A woman in the audience retorted that parents considered parking and double parking in the canoe launching area dangerous.

Asked by Councilman Robert J. Flahive if he would be willing to dedicate public access through the project, Carmody refused, saying it would mean "lopping off" a couple of units.

And when councilmen discussed current town requirements that waterfront developments include public access, Carmody replied: "We didn't start the game with those kind of rules."

"You got in before the rules changed," said Mayor Holmes S. (Pete) Norville.

The final map for the 62 Lucky Drive condominium was approved unanimously.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

INDUSTRIAL — After a public hearing approved an amendment to the municipal code requiring all developments in the M-industrial zone to go through the conditional use process with public hearings.

FLODO INSURANCE — Instructed town staff to prepare a standardized format to be used by commercial applicants in excepting certain areas from flood control subsidy insurance; public hearing on proposed exclusion of areas east of 101 left councilmen unsure of town's legal position in the event of flooding to commercial property.

EASEMENT — Ordered the vacation of a 15 feet slope easement in front of the proposed Sizzler restaurant at lot 1, Fifer Industrial Park.

LANDSCAPING — Approved an amendment to the municipal code by adding regulations enforcing maintenance of required landscaping; enforcement will be by a planning enforcement board composed of the director of public works, the zoning administrator, a member of the board of design and an appointed "city landscape specialist."

STUDY ZONE — Set a public hearing for Sept. 5 at 8 p.m. on a proposed amendment establishing an S-study zone classification; planning commissioner David I. Freed complained from the audience that it had taken "since January or February" to prepare the amendment and meanwhile the town's light industrial zone was "a farce."

RADIO — Decided to write acknowledging Radio KTIM's invitation to councilmen to appear on programs on city council matters; Norville noted "we have a noticeable communications gap in some areas."

TREE — Refused a request from Susie Augustinos for removal and replacement of a large Modesto ash in the sidewalk outside her home at 18 Lakeside Drive; decided to set town policy for fiscal 1972-73 "relative to sidewalk repairs caused by trees' as limited to repairing sidewalks at town expense only.

CONTRACT — Awarded the contract for reconstruction of Edison Avenue from Redwood Avenue to No. 100 to the Filipovich Construction Co. of Orinda, low bidder out of five at $28,600; town's estimate was $22,796.50; high bid was $33,173.50.

PARKS — Endorsed the concept of a county regional park jistrict.

ELECTRICAL — Set a public hearing for Sept. 5 at 7:30 p.m. for proposed amendment adopting the 1971 electrical code ordinance.

SENIORS — Approved joint powers agreement with county for senior citizens recreaton program with town's contribution of $2,000 for fiscal 1972-73.

CITY-COUNTY — Concurred with planning commission's disapproval of the City-County Planning Council's resolution that cities routinely refer to the county planning department all residential developments over 50 units or within 500 feet of unincorporated areas; instructed the commission's nonconcurrence to be relayed to the city-county council.

PLAN REVISION — Discussed in general terms how to approach updating of the town's general plan during the recently imposed moratorium on development. Councilman Robert J. Flahive had suggested that the council owed the planning commission some guidelines and asked if the town's open space committee might not be revived. Fellow councilmen generally opposed approaching the problem through committees — though welcoming any citizen opinion given to the planning commission — and noted that the town zoning administrator had been asked to survey parcels larger than one acre and that outside planners were to be hired.

Commission Will Hear Housing Plan

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Plans for a housing development on the east side of Strawberry Point and for a small fill in the bay on Greenwood Cove Drive in Tiburon will be heard by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission on Thursday.

The meeting will be at 2 p.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building, 455 Golden Gate Avenue.

Marin Land Development Co. received a BCDC permit four years ago for the Strawberry project, but did not complete it. Under newer law, the commission has jurisidiction over the shoreline of the project.

The staff has reached a proposed agreement with the company to allow completion of the project, extending it over the water more than would be allowed under present commission regulations. In turn, however, the company would not build one of the originally authorized apartment buildings and instead preserve the site for public access to the water.

The Tiburon fill of 85 cubic yards was proposed by the Marin County Flood Control and Water Conservation District for a storm pipe anchorage.

Bolinas To Open 'Closed' Meeting

The Bolinas Community Public Utilities District board members changed their minds yesterday and announced that a previously scheduled closed meeting will be open to the public tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the district office.

Board clerk Rob Robinson had earlier said the board would meet in closed session to discuss the possibility of acquiring land in the district for a new sewage treatment plant.

DAIRY INDUSTRY

Responsibility Faces Princess

By KAREN PETERSON

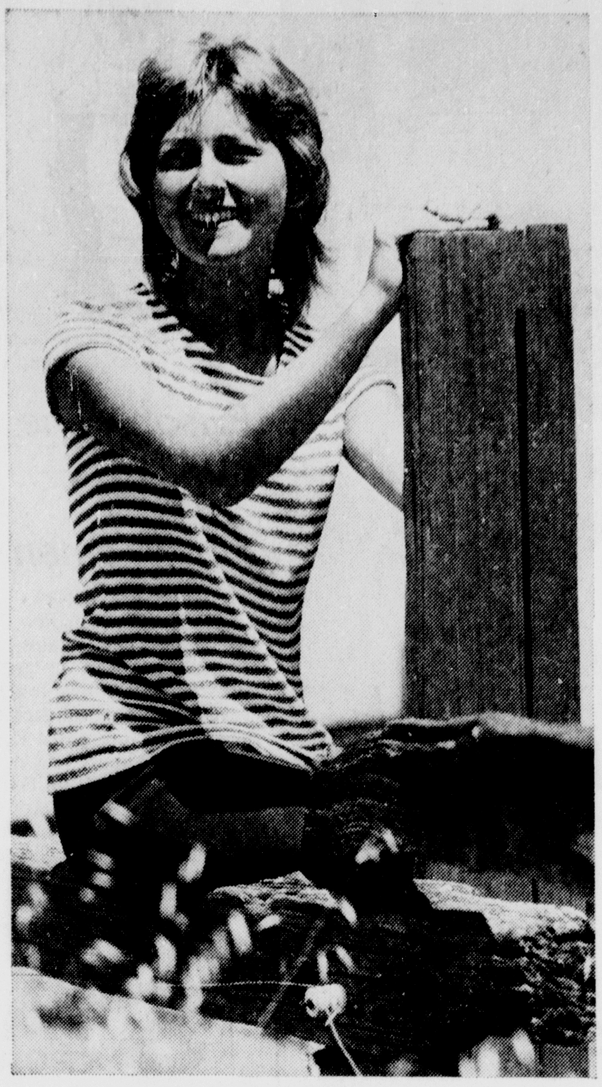
Petaluma's Toni Brazil has a big responsibility. She's a district dairy priccess — and to the California Milk Advisory Board, this is no frivolous title.

With a slogan like "Everybody Needs Milk," special care must be taken with the young women chosen to represent the dairy industry. She must have all those qualities synonymous with milk if she is to be the living example that milk is the key to vitality and health.

With a grin, Tony explained that the contest is unlike most beauty pageants.

"It's not like a Miss America contest where all the girls parade around in bathing suits. A girl wins if she looks like she drinks milk!" she said.

In May, Toni, 18, was chosen the District Three Dairy Princess (the district encompasses Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Solano, Lake and Mendocino counties). From there she went to the state competition and was selected first runner-up.



TONI BRAZIL
District dairy princess

THE STATE competition, held last month in Hollywood, was a fast paced week of activity. Besides seeing the sights, including a tour and dinner aboard the Queen Mary, the girls were under the constant surveillance of the judges.

"We had individual judging at the beginning of the week when the judges asked if we smoked or drank, but we were being judged all the time. They watched our manners, even while we ate. Mainly, our judging was based on personality, speaking ability, educational background and dairy background," she said.

One of the qualifications for any girl seeking the title is a dairy farm or similar industry background. Toni's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Brazil, were formerly dairy ranchers in Marin County and are now cattle dealers in Petaluma.

Final judging ceremonies were held at the Century Plaza Hotel when contestants appeared in cocktail and evening gowns for competition. It was also the time for them to answer pre-selected questions.

"I was nervous about the questions because the girls did a really good job answering them. A lot of thought went into it and most were the kind you had to think about," Toni said.

TONI'S QUESTION dealt with the effectiveness of women in high administration positions. Toni replied that women are not effective because of the basic suspicions that men still have about women in executive offices.

"We were all good friends," said Toni, "I had so much fun that I wish the contest were next week so I could go back."

Toni's sisters, Terri, 20, and Gerry, 19, were also contestants making it the first time in the district contest's 15-year history that three sisters competed in the same contest for the same title. All three sisters were honored.

Terri was named first alternate and would have replaced Toni if she had won in the state competition. Gerry was named Miss Vitality.

Toni will continue to reign as district princess for one year, during which time she will appear at fairs, rodeos and service clubs. Most of the time she will give speeches on milk and serve as a personal representative of the milk industry, explaining the nutritional values and need for milk.

In September she will attend Heald's Business College with the aid of the $1,500 scholarship awarded to her as first runner-up.

TWEEDY LOOK

Roman Designers Show Their Wares

Combined AP and UPI

ROME — Two Roman designers, whose '72 fall-winter haute-couture fashions were shown yesterday, agreed that trousers for women still are trendy.

And the loose, comfortable look for coats was unanimously in.

The fashionable Italian woman probably will wear tweeds and subdued Prince of Wales plaids this autumn. But for evening wear, the chic choice will be between gold brocade and dark velvet.

Texas born fashion designer Tiziani's feminine silhouette was either narrow or free and easy. His jackets were loosely gathered at the waist or inset with ribbed knit. His fashions made girls look skinny enough to be pulled through a knothole.

TIZIANI'S WOMAN need not fear the cold. Underneath her coat, sometimes buttoned tightly at the wrist, she can wear a jacket plus a leather vest and a blouse. Green was a favorite color in suede or tweed.

He liked fox as a fashion accent, always dyed to match the garment.

Tiziani's outfits were completed by a felt hat with a central ridge like a construction worker's helmet plus a soft wide brim.

More striking if less classical was Biki's leather hood. Starting from a little crown at the back, it enveloped the neck and shoulders like the hood of a coat of mail.

Apart from the trousers, some of which were cut short at knee length, this designer also favored pleated skirts in light brown or beige checks.

IN MEN'S fashions, designers declared war on the classic dinner jacket.

Captain Marvel, dauntless self-propelled hero of a generation of American comic book fans, walked onto the runway during the Valentini show Sunday night wearing what was billed as an evening suit.

Americans in the audience knew better. It was Captain Marvel in a 1972 version of his flying suit. There were the black slim trousers, the close-fitting tunic jacket and the hand-painted gold pattern tapering from shoulders to a point above the wasit.

His was just one of a series of tunic-topped evening suits with hand-painted jackets by Valentini. There was one in blue with hand-painted lavender designs, another in purple with orange fireworks designs.

In fact, the fall-winter collections shown here Sunday spurned any kind of dressy evening wear. The closest one designer came to it was with shantung kimono-type jackets or the military tunic of some comic strip character.

Designers appeared to have passed the word around to concentrate on sporty outfits with their tweedy jackets, plaids and fancy checks.

THE COUTURIERS widened their ties and kept their jackets narrow, though seldom marking the waist. One favored high buttoned vests that peeped out from the suit coats.

Valentini squared shoulders and gave many of his outfits an almost oblong shape. In particular, he designed suede-cloth uniform tunics, closed by a zip fastener, from which a polo-neck sweater emerged.

His evening suits were the least conventional of all those shown by eight menswear houses this season, none of whom showed a conventional black tuxedo.

There is conservatism aplenty, but it is for daytime, whether it is in simple, unfussy tailoring, muted plaids, or quiet solid colors.

Valentini did skinny zip-front jackets in sports suits that looked as if they had been influenced by both the Peking and Moscow trips of President Nixon. They were half Mao jacket, half White Russian officer's uniform.

For business, Valentini joined the throng with slim-cut classic suits, single or double breasted, in solid colors or muted plaids. There was a beige plaid suit worn with solid brown shirt and beige tie that won applause, or a series of knee length solid-color overcoats and matching pants, worn with plaid jackets.

ALBERTO WANVER did much of his collection in easy-moving jerseys, some of which looked like heavy woven tweeds. He, too, liked a very slim line, and showed waist-

Schools Get New Names

Schools "for boys" and "for girls," the traditional designation of institutions operated by the California Youth Authority, are no longer a part of the CYA lexicon.

Two years ago, the Ventura School for Girls and the Los Guilucos School for Girls were renamed, simply, Ventura School and Los Guilucos School when both were converted to coeducational institutions.

Both schools —Ventura, near Camarillo, and Los Guilucos, near Santa Rosa —now have living units occupied by young men who attend school and engage in daily programs together with the young women who are assigned to the two institutions.

This month, the department decided to drop the designation "for boys" as part of the official names of the Karl Holton and O. H. Close Schools in Stockton, the Fred C. Nelles School at Whittier and the Paso Robles School.

Any Dress Should Express Personality

The meaningful dress is a dress with a purpose and personality. That's what Jerry Silverman says. The dress manufacturer explains that such a dress gives a woman an instant change of pace or mood. "Only a dress she can step into and zip up the back does this for her," says Silverman.

MARIN MEMBERS will be attending the dinner meeting of the Golden Gate Chapter of the National Secretaries Association at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Sequoia Room of the Clift Hotel in San Francisco.

The organization is dedicated to improving the standards of the secretarial profession, and has worked with the United States Standards Institute on quality and standardization of various office machines, and participated in national meetings to discuss woman's role in civil and economic problems.

The dinner meeting will have the theme "Panama Revisited." The program will include films of Panama and a display of crafts and costumes.

Lynn Jenkins of San Rafael, is Marin reservations chairman.

THE MARIN County Retired Officers' Wives Club will meet for their monthly luncheon tomorrow at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross. The social hour will be held at noon followed by luncheon at 12:30 p.m. They will also attend the fashion show.

Hostesses are Mmes. Norman W. Todd and Don W. Dixon. Accepting reservations are Mmes. E. F. Winsor, Tiburon; N. E. Newhall, Mill Valley; A. M. Cochran, San Rafael, and D. E. Eberhardt, Novato.

THE NOVATO Hostess Club will have a program on decoupage at the meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church of Novato.

Jean Beiter will present the program. Committee members are Mmes. Al English and Briant Watkins.

Groups Admire Different People

Black and white American women exhibit significant differences in attitude toward the women they admire most. A full 88 per cent of black women (36 per cent of white polled), indicated their high respect for Mrs. Coretta King — a number far greater than the separate or combined totals for any other single individual.

Black women also influenced the selection of black opera star Marian Anderson in eighth place with a 58 per cent vote, as compared with 35 per cent of the white women's vote.

Fairfax Day Care Center Gains Nod

The San Anselmo Fairfax Children's Center is one of 12 day care programs approved by the United Bay Area Crusade, at a board meeting last week.

The Marin center, which will care for 30 pre-school age children, will share in the $85,766 allocated for this recent extension of the Bay Area's program for providing care for infants and children. The Marin facility will receive a $6,774 grant.

Mrs. Ethel Seiderman is director of the San Anselmo-Fairfax Children's Center. The program will utilize the facilities of the Isabel Cook Elementary School in San Anselmo.

Joseph Denhart, director of Children's Center and Pre-School programs for the Marin County Superintendent of Schools, is a member of the United Bay Area Crusade Child Care Committee and was chairman of one of the Crusade's task forces which researched the need for day care centers in the bay region.

The allocations from Crusade concentrated services funds will provide matching funds through December 1972, and in most instances are effective immediately, according to Crusade President Peter E. Haas.

Mrs. Arnold Anderson of Orinda, chairman of the Crusade's volunteer Child Care Committee said the additional funds will provide "for a more geographic equitability of day care allocations within the UBAC five-county area and will double the number of Crusade-supported child care recipients," since her committee was formed last year. This brings the day care centers to 32 and provides care for 1362 young children.

Other areas benefitting from the new ruling are Alameda County to receive assistance for five day care programs, Contra Costa County, one, San Francisco, two, and San Mateo County, three.

Aide Picked For Women Motorists

I-J Special Report

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. — Motoress Aid, Inc., a national organization for women motorists, has appointed Robert Stogdill as executive consultant — technical automotive information, according to Alice Saunders, executive director.

Stogdill is also director of Powder Puff Mechanics instruction for the Metropolitan Detroit YWCA's. The originator of the preventive maintenance approach to Powder Puff Mechanics, Stogdill has graduated more than 1,200 students in the YWCA program since 1964.

U.S. Women List Favorites

Asked for their attitudes toward 27 prominent females, women throughout the United States gave first place to Mamie Eisenhower, second to Mrs. Pat Nixon, and third to Queen Elizabeth of England.

Last year, Queen Elizabeth rated second, while Mrs. Nixon tied for third place with Senator Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Senator Smith placed fourth this year.

Former First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis placed 12th on the list of most-respected females, tying with Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm of New York.

Magazine Lists Fall Holidays

If you missed out on a summer vacation, the travel editors of Glamour magazine have some suggestions for fall holidays. They range from a weekend to two weeks and all are priced under $300.

Suggestions include visits to Nashville, Tenn., the cradle of country music, Caracas, Venezuela, touring Ireland by car, a weekend on a dude ranch in Stony Creek, New York, and a two day drive, touring and tasting in the Napa Valley wine country during the fall harvest.

Dirty News Of High Soot Levels

The word from the College of Human Ecology at Cornell University is that 40 pounds of grease evaporate in the average kitchen every year, with a fair amount of it settling on the walls. And from the National Air Surveillance Network comes more dirty news of high soot levels in the air.

The NASN calls it particulate matter, measures it by micrograms per cubic meter of air, and says it ranges from 95 in Boston to 145 in Los Angeles, with New York weighing in at 130.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Older Relatives Don't Realize Little Nieces Become Big Girls

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I have an older relative who is always giving me clothes for birthday and Christmas presents. Sometimes they're okay but sometimes they aren't. She says feel free to exchange them, but my Mom doesn't want to hurt her feelings, so she makes me wear them — especially when we're around Aunt Amy (the relative) which is quite a bit. Aunty thinks her taste is the greatest.

Now it comes to the latest present — a dress that looks cruddy on me. Mom says I have to wear it to a family reunion in August, and there's this second counsin who will be there and he's a doll. I don't want to look and feel dumb around him — MUST I?

DEAR MUST:

Trouble with older relatives is they often don't realize little nieces become big girls who like to pick out their own clothes.

Trouble with your mother is she hasn't told Aunt Amy this fact of life.

When Aunty's "taste makes waste" (or misery, if you're forced to wear the dress), I vote for an exchange. You can soften the blow by telling her the fit isn't right; and won't she please come along to help with a new selection? — HELEN

DEAR MUST I:

. . . Which will either be an eye-opener for her (to your taste) or an eyebrow-raiser (that you should be so "tasteless").

Anyway, I'm sure Aunt Amy would much rather you have presents you would use and enjoy than ones you'd like to throw in a corner and forget. After all, she SAYS, "Feel free to exchange them." — SUE

DEAR RAP:

At 19, our daughter moved into her own apartment, after getting a full time job.

Now she intends to get married and I'd like to know: When she moved out against our wishes, should we pay for her wedding? — MOTHER OF MANY

DEAR MOTHER OF MANY:

How can you hold a grudge when your daughter only wanted to be on her own?

If it's the marriage you're against, then you have a right to question; if you're holding back to get even — well it's still your right. She probably wouldn't want her parents forking over money for something or someone they resent. Straighten out your hassles first and then discuss the wedding. — SUE

DEAR MOTHER OF MANY:

Let's look at the "many" in your signature. It might have something (or everything) to do with your daughter's moving out.

It also may influence your worries about the wedding. If you can't afford the tab, then say so. Don't hide behind excuses that make HER feel guilty. — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I am an athletically built male, an honor student; and a homosexual. I'm writing, not for help, because I feel there's no help for me, but to tell your readers what it's like for many of us. In a word — LONELY!

I have always felt an attraction for the same sex. It really hurts when I hear people making fun of homosexuals, especially on some of the TV shows. I'm popular in school yet I pretend to be girl-shy because I feel so phony when I'm with a girl and can't really give her love.

I could never go to bed with a male, so that leaves me — nothing, except my music. Sometimes I wonder what it would be like to love and be loved, and then I remember what I am and go back to feeling empty and all alone.

Fortunately, I have the piano. I sit down and play for hours and when I get up, I'm ready to face anything the world throws at me.

Now that I'm finished, it all seems so futile and stupid writing this. But then I wanted to explain, hoping that people will try to understand those who like me, are doomed to — A LIFE OF LONELINESS

DEAR LONELY:

You need the assurance of a psychiatrist who will tell you that in today's society, the "different" aren't doomed unless they shoot themselves down with self-hatred. Call the Mental Health Clinic and make an appointment. Cost? Only what you can afford. — HELEN AND SUE

The Father Doesn't Pay All The Bills

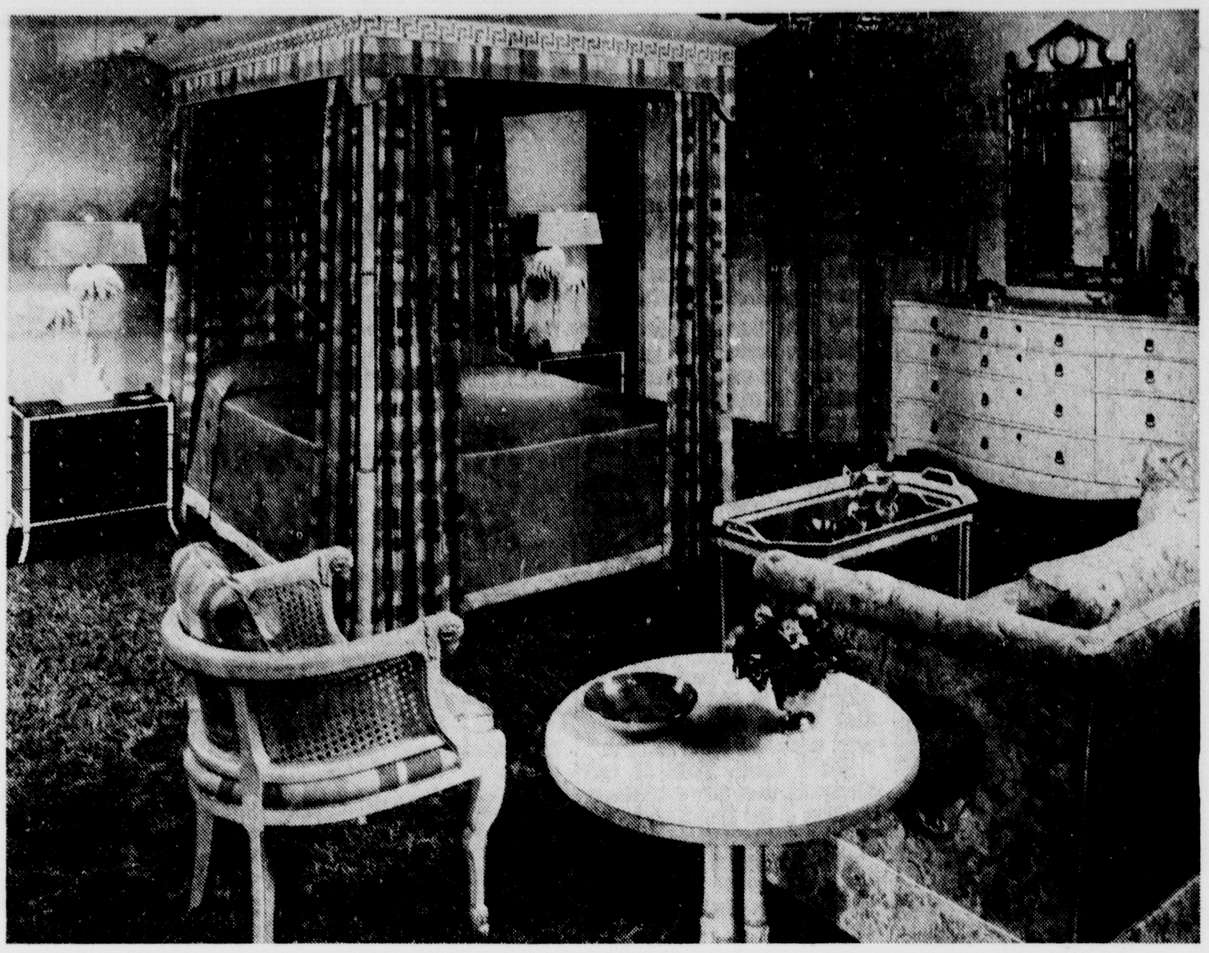
NEW YORK (UPI)—The father of the bride can find some balm for that pain in his wallet in this: Despite what cartoonists depict, Dad doesn't pay all the bills.

The sharing of financial obligations involved in a wedding can be broken down as follows, advises the Jewelry Industry Council:

The bride pays for: Her trousseau, wedding ring for the bridegroom, presents for her attendants, accommodations for her attendants, personal stationery and calling cards, her medical examination.

The bridegroom pays for: bride's engagement and wedding rings, the marriage license, gift for the bride, his medical examination, bride's bouquet and going-away corsage, boutonnieres for men of wedding party, flowers for the two mothers, gloves and ascots or ties for men in the wedding party, gifts for his ushers and best man, accommodations for his best man and ushers, fee for the clergyman, the wedding trip.

The bride's family pays for: Wedding invitations and enclosure cards, announcements, engagement and wedding photographs, rental for church, fees for the organist and sexton, aisle carpet, flowers for church, bridesmaids' bouquets and flower headdress, gratuity for traffic policemen, transportation for bridal party from house to church and to the reception, bridesmaids' luncheon, the reception.



IT'S EASY to want to turn off the day's activities when you can turn on to reclining in a copy of the Prince of Wales' Pagoda bed. This 1972 version gets a new look in a white glazed lacquer finish with lime-green trim.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

A Dramatic Look—The Canopied Bed

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

It always amuses me to observe the bandwagon-jumpers of any industry. This year they're jumping aboard the Orient Express hoping to pick up a few bucks.

But underneath some of their instamatic popularity promos you'll usually find some jewels of design inspiration. One example is the dramatic canopied bed.

The antecedent of this white lacquered and glazed bed is actually on permanent display at Brighton Pavilion, an architectural fantasy built 150 years ago at England's seacoast resort of Brighton. It was constructed during the height of the British love affair with all things Chinese, and the original of this extravagant bed was created in mahogany for the then Prince of Wales.

IT TAKES nicely to 20th-Century fabrics and this newer white finish with detailing etched in lime green. Best of all you don't have to overindulge in Oriental motifs when you have one form as dominant as this Pagoda bed. Better to switch off the China theme and surround the piece with restrained, traditional roommates of English or French parentage.

Today's version of the Pagoda bed is manufactured in High Point, N.C., and represents a fairly large investment, since they suggest a $1,400 price tag. But if it hangs around for another 150 years, and who's to say it won't, that averages out to about $10 a year.

Of course, the contemporary Chinese citizen would probably laugh at our current craze, but perhaps they, too, are developing a breed of youngsters who will find value in the classics of Chinese furnishings and art. Someday they may even be collecting American Chinese pieces, circa '72, as examples of their wide range of influence during the 20th Century.

Prison Time Is Longer For Women

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — In New Jersey, among other states, the law requires longer prison terms for women than for men convicted of the same crime. But should the proposed Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) become part of the U. S. Constituion, that law and other official sex-based discriminatory treatment would be invalidated.

The ERA in effect, would prohibit federal and state governments from discriminating on basis of sex in laws or official practices. Only rarely — when, for instance, the biological characteristics of one sex are directly involved — could such distinctions be made.

Thus, a law regulating sperm donors or wet nurses would not violate the ERA because it treated men and women differently. But continuing or initiating sex-based differences in prison terms, or otherwise treating the sexes differently, would be unconstituional.

Some Celebrities Plan For Summer At Home

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — If your summer vacation plans entail nothing more exotic than an occasional weekend at the beach or just the brief respite of having the children away at camp, you are not alone.

According to columnist and author Doris Lilly, several of the more celebrated folk will be home this summer too.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader will spend the sweltering summer months in his Washington rooming house for which he pays $80 a month rent and which is without appliances of any kind, including air conditioning, according to Miss Lilly.

He will be working full time for Public Citizen, Inc., a project to help retired persons continue to do useful things.

Television personality Barbara Walters will stay in New York, Miss Lilly said. Her vacation plans are nil since she covered the Democratic and plans to cover the Republican convention.

Feminist Gloria Steinem, who attended the Democratic convention, has returned to her home in New York where she will continue to work on the magazine, MS.

Novelist Truman Capote is not going away either. He told Miss Lilly he does not want to meet any new people because he already knows too many.

Lucille Ball's summer plans are to work with her husband, Gary Morton, taping television shows for the fall. They will also entertain a lot at home, she told Miss Lilly.

Doris Lilly herself plans to travel.

"I have always attributed my success to avoiding hard work, never falling in love with eligible men and cultivating rich friends with houses on the sea, so that I too may have places to go in the summer when it gets hot," she said.

Tired McGovern Woos 150 Unions

CUSTER, S.D. (UPI) — A tired Sen. George McGovern started a two-week vacation in the Black Hills amid a controversy within the AFL-CIO, a traditional mainstay of Democratic presidential candidates, over whether to endorse him for the presidency.

A key aide said as the Democratic presidential candidate flew here Monday that McGovern was not encouraging either directly or indirectly the AFL-CIO component unions—including the Machinists and the American Federation of Federal, State and Municipal Employes—who have endorsed him over the stringent objections of AFL-CIO President George Meany.

(The New York Times reported today that McGovern mailed letters Monday to the presidents of 150 international labor unions, including Meany, offering to meet with them "to talk about our common interests and discuss any differences we may have." The Times quoted McGovern as saying, "I told them that I thought we had an uphill battle but that we could win the election and we woald be the kind of an administration they would be proud of.")

The dissident unions were reportedly planning to put pressure on Meany to endorse McGovern at Wednesday's AFL-CIO council meeting or face the loss of their contribution to the Committee for Political Education (COPE), the union's political fund raising arm.

McGovern's advisers think one reason why Meany has been critical of him is a belief that radicals are in charge of McGovern's campaign. They believe that, once he realizes McGovern's staff is chiefly composed of skilled professional organizers, Meany will put the union's full resources behind the campaign.

McGovern was heartened by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's decision Monday to support the Democratic ticket even though the mayor expressed bitterness at McGovern supporters who he feels were responsible for unseating Daley's delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

McGovern's advisors thought it would take the mayor six to eight weeks to come to the support of the ticket. Advised of Daley's qualified endorsement as he flew here, McGovern on landing immediately called Daley to thank him for the "magnanimous" act.

McGovern, described as "bone tired," has been in virtual seclusion since he won the nomination at Miami Beach, shunning news conferences and granting interviews only to a select few.

He is staying in a state park in a modest log cabin tucked away in the Black Hills of his native state. His arrival marked his first return to South Dakota since his nomination.

A small but enthusiastic crowd greeted him at Rapid City Airport.

Dock Action Is Deferred In Larkspur

Plans for a floating dock at the Nara Gardens apartments at 635 South Eliseo Drive, got a lukewarm reception from the Larkspur Architectural Review Committee last night.

Committee members deferred action on the application said Randall Walker, city building and planning technician, until the dock itself gets Planning Commission approval.

The committee also recommended the dock's width be restricted to 50 per cent of the lot width in line with new city recommendations and asked for the application to be resubmitted with landscaping proposals, said Walker.

The Larkspur Architectural Review Committee Also:

LANDSCAPING — Approved landscaping and parking plans by Twentieth Century Homes for a 10-unit apartment project at 495 South Eliseo Drive.

LOCUST — Recommended the planning commission approve a six-unit apartment project at 40 Locust Avenue by Plantech Corporation.

TELEPHONE — Recommended approval of additions to Pacific Telephone's switching equipment station at 7 King Street.

SIGN — Approved an identification sign to be located at Ross Valley Savings and Loan Association's new branch at 509 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Bailiff's Gun Goes Off; McGuire Dives

Security was perilous at best at the Hall of Justice Friday when the gun of a bailiff accidentally discharged a bullet which lodged in a bookcase in the chamber of Superior Court Judge E. Warren McGuire.

In a report released today, bailiff Lino Paul Stefani said he was working on his gun in the judge's antechamber at 4:30 p.m. when the round discharged and went through the wall into the room where the judge was working.

The .38-caliber slug nicked a copy of the State Water Code and lodged in a bookcase partition behind and not more than a couple of feet from the judge who, court attaches said, dived to the floor as the bullet ripped into the room.

Stefani said he unloaded his weapon and took it apart to tighten the inner trigger spring, then reloaded before he realized he had forgotten to tighten the hammer spring. He said the gun went off while he was correcting the oversight.

"I realize that this was not the time or the place to adjust anything on a firearm," the deputy said.

Before the kidnap and shooting of Judge Harold J. Haley in August 1970, the judges did not allow bailiffs to carry guns, but the court deputies were armed amid the overall tightening of security which followed the shoot-out.

Contract Is Given For Expressway

The Rohnert Park City Council last night awarded the contract to extend the Rohnert Park expressway to the western city limits.

Clerk Kathryn Logue said the council awarded the construction contract to Argonaut Constructors of Santa Rosa which had submitted the low bid of $148,789, well below the engineering estimate of $189,000.

Total cost of the project was estimated at $198,770 and will be paid by an assessment district on the property owners. The road work will open up the land west of Highway 101 for a future regional shopping center and improve access to the new overpass which will be built soon.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

COLLEGE PLAN — Delayed action on the Sonoma State College area master plan so the citizens advisory committee may review it.

PARK — Approved the site plan for El Colegio Neighborhood Park.

SCHOOLS — Authorized Mayor Arthur N. Roberts to circulate a petition asking the Cotati School District board to change the name of the district to the Cotati-Rohnert Park School District.

MEETING — Adjourned to 7 p.m. today to study the 1972-73 budget.

Fischer Wins Round On Cameras; Match Begins

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) —An adamant Bobby Fischer threatened another walkout today only minutes before the start of the fourth game of the $250,000 world championship chess match but agreed to play if closed circuit television cameras were not used.

Only 15 minutes before referee Lothar Schmid started the clock for today's game the firm which bought film rights to the match tried to reinstall the cameras.

"There will be no play if the cameras are brought in, that is sure," one Fischer aide said.

An urgent meeting of the organizers was held and the firm, Chester Fox, agreed not to use the cameras.

Fischer then sat down in his special black leather and metal swivel chair and made his opening move—his usual king pawn.

Fischer boycotted the second game against world champion Boris Spassky of Russia because of the cameras. Fischer said they made him nervous.

BART Taxation Plan Is Defeated

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill prohibiting San Mateo County from taxing Bay Area Rapid Transit District (BART) property within its boundaries has received final legislative approval in the Assembly.

After proponents argued that it was unfair for the county to enjoy a BART facility at the expense of taxpayers in other counties and apply a tax to it, the measure by Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, was sent to the governor Monday on a 45-15 vote.

Killer Fire Caused By Lit Cigarette

The fire which took the life of a 41-year-old Terra Linda housewife yesterday was caused by a cigarette smoldering in the sofa upon which she had fallen asleep, according to Chief George A. Walser of the Terra Linda Fire Department.

Helen M. Walz died in the blaze which swept through her home at 731 Del Ganado Road. Her three daughters escaped to a neighbor's house.

Hub Woman Is Reported Satisfactory

A San Anselmo woman was reported in satisfactory condition with an acute back strain today at Marin General Hospital after she was knocked down by a car in her driveway yesterday.

Police said Berta Mendoza, 60, was standing behind the car in the drive at her home at 40 Woodside Drive when a child climbed into the car and put it into reverse gear.

Laird Concedes Bombs Could Have Hit Dikes

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has again conceded that U.S. bombing attacks may have struck some of North Vietnam's dikes and dams.

But Laird said at a news conference Monday that any dikes or dams struck were not part of major water control installations and were hit because they were near military targets.

"There has been, and will continue to be, no targeting of the dikes and dams in North Vietnam," Laird said.

He said there were "of course, occasions when dams and dikes could be hit" if they were the sites of antiaircraft batteries firing on attacking U.S. planes, or near bridges and roads over which the North Vietnamese were moving troops and military supplies.

$300,000 Tax Savings Seen In Marin Bus Cost

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — The state legislature's attorney today came up with a legal opinion that could save Marin taxpayers almost $300,000 in connection with intracounty bus service.

At issue is the Marin Transit District's share of the cost of local bus service provided in the county since January by Golden Gate Bridge District.

Under a formula in the legislation setting up the partnership, Marin would have to pay $787,338 during the current fiscal year as its share of the bus costs.

Legislative Counsel George H. Murphy today concluded that the transit district and the bridge district could revise the formula any way they wished without having to go to the Legislature for a new law.

He said if both "agree that the amount calculated under the formula is inequitable or unreasonable," they can set a new method of cost sharing.

Officials of both districts already have agreed that the old formula is not a fair way to set the costs.

Bike-Riding Bill Passes In Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Final legislative approval was voted by the Senate Monday for a bill permitting local authorities to adopt regulations on bicycle riding on public sidewalks.

The measure by Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, was sent to the governor on a 32-0 vote. It also would allow local governments to regulate sidewalk traffic of electric carts operated by persons physically handicapped or more than 50 years of age.

Bail Bondsman Starts Action For Damages

San Rafael bail bondsman Ralph M. Finley yesterday filed a $200,000 damage suit against a competitor, claiming he was shoved down some stairs and kicked.

In the suit filed in Marin Superior Court, Finley charged that Joseph J. Pecora, who owns Joe Pecora Bail Bonds, attacked him on the stairs of the Cheda Building, where they both have offices.

The incident took place last July 19, the suit said.

Finley said he suffered "great mental, physical and nervous pain" from the alleged attack.

Pecora pleaded no contest to disturbing the peace and was fined $75 in municipal court in a criminal action stemming from the incident. He was originally charged with battery after Finley told police he was shoved from behind down a flight of steps, then kicked.

Parking Lots Win Approval

By JAY GOODWIN

Taking what appeared to be one step forward and one step back, the Mill Valley City Council last night approved locations of five proposed off-street parking lots near Miller Avenue while shunning a commitment to build them.

The five sites had been recommended by a parking subcommittee of the city's planning commission and endorsed by the full commission last week.

While urging the council to approve the five locations, Councilman Robert E. Capron reminded his colleagues they were not committing the city to anything.

The council will decide which parcels to purchase and how to raise the money after it hears from a financial consultant.

Capron estimated the fair market value of the four privately owned parcels at $175,000. That figure, he said, did not include the value of the improvements on the land.

The five sites for the proposed lots are: (1) two lots on the east side of Willow Avenue, off Miller Avenue, (2) one lot behind an auto agency on the west side of La Goma Avenue, (3) one lot on Miller Avenue on the site of the existing Enco station, (4), one city-owned lot on Valley Circle west of property owned by Pacific Gas and Electric Co., (5) one lot behind Tad's Television Shop near Brown's Hall.

The focal point of last night's debate was the ideal mix of commuter and shopper parking.

Some members of the audience — who ride the bus to San Francisco daily — favored retention of commuter parking near Miller Avenue. They opposed any plan that would eliminate the existing commuter spaces and prevent commuters from using the new off-street lots.

Chamber of Commerce President Samuel W. Schneider disagreed, saying many Miller Avenue merchants opposed commuter parking in the planned off-street lots. Those new lots, said Schneider, should be used exclusively for shoppers.

The five new lots, as planned, would replace about 178 of the 180 parking spaces that would be eliminated by the Miller Avenue reconstruction project.

John Freschl, a Miller Avenue merchant, said insufficient data had been collected by the city's sole meter maid to determine accurately who was presently using the median strip parking. He urged the council to prepare a thorough utilization study of the median parking before it determined whether or not commuter parking should be permitted in the Miller Avenue area.

The council agreed to a further study of the utilization of the area but simultaneously promised not to eliminate any commuter parking from Miller Avenue until sufficient replacement parking for commuters was provided.

Councilman Robert E. Burton, who has suggested the council investigate the possibility of a commuter parking lot south of the Tamalpais High School athletic field, spoke against commuter parking near the Miller Avenue business district.

"That land is too valuable for a piece of metal to sit on all day," he said.

Burton once again raised the alternative idea of a commuter lot on the triangular-shaped parcel at the doorstep to the Almonte area. He told his colleagues that the Tamalpais High School District, owner of the parcel, would not even consider the proposal unless the city council indicated it was interested in the idea.

Anxious to kill the proposal which had aroused bitter opposition from Almonte homeowners, Councilman Gerald J. Hood moved to table the matter. He said his motion was made in the interest of democracy.

Burton shot back, "You're tabling a matter which has had absolutely no public discussion. That's hardly democracy."

Hood said, "If there hasn't been any public discussion, what are we discussing right now?"

Before a vote could be taken on Hood's motion to table the matter, Burton offered a substitute motion to refer the whole subject of commuter parking in Mill Valley to the planning commission.

The vote on Burton's motion was 4 to 1, with Hood the lone dissenter.

Mill Valley Council Holds No Notice Closed Talks

In a session for which neither the public nor press was given notice, the Mill Valley City Council met behind closed doors last night to discuss what one councilman called "dissatisfaction over the performance" of a colleague.

The secret meeting preceded the regular council session in city hall, and public and press arrived to find the council chamber deserted, unaware councilmen were gathered behind closed doors.

Emerging, council members would say only that "personnel matters" were discussed, although no such reason for a closed meeting is provided by the Ralph M. Brown Act, the state's antisecrecy law.

Today, three councilmen reached by the Independent-Journal declined again to expand on the nature of the meeting, but Mayor Jean S. Barnard said the performance of one of the five council members was discussed in the session.

The council was reminded last night by a reporter of the reasons for which public bodies may meet in private — to consider hiring and firing, hear charges and to instruct salary negotiators — but that "personnel matters" did not meet Brown Act provisions.

"Is that so?" retorted Councilman Robert E. Capron.

Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker said he assumed the closed session was called after the council met — again in private — Friday night to instruct City Mgr. William H. Cunningham in pay negotiations with city workers. But he said he wasn't certain.

The Independent-Journal, moreover, received no notice of Friday night's closed meeting, as required by the Brown Act. Four of the five council members were present Friday, with Mayor Barnard absent.

Mrs. Barnard said it is not her performance with which her colleagues are critical.

Cotati's Coffee Klatsch Curdles

The youthful majority of the Cotati City Council failed last night to lure disgruntled citizens for a coffee klatsch, but used the time to plan new targets for change in city hall — including the city manager.

A handful of residents attended the get-together, an attempt by the council to bridge the generation and cultural gaps. The only two older residents to show up have been supporters of the young people who swept into office in April at the expense of three middle-aged incumbents.

The two older councilmen, both holdovers who did not have to run for reelection in April did not attend last night, Frank P. Dolinsek and Herbert Winger.

The young councilmen laid part of the blame for the poor turnout on City Mgr. Paul W. Salfen, saying he had failed to distribute notices as directed. Councilmen Geoffrey Dunham and Stephen Laughlin were more open in their criticism of Salfen, but Mayor Annette Lombardi sais she was generally happy with his job performance although he has "some communication problems."

Currently the three haven't authority to fire Salfen since a 4-1 vote is required, but that may change very soon. At the regular meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m., the council will consider an ammendment to the personnel ordinance that would reduce the needed vote to 3-2 and give the young people the power to fire him.

Neither Laughlin nor Dunham would comment on Salfen's job security once the ammendment is pushed through, but both made off-hand, disparaging remarks about him during the evening.

Last year Salfen also had problems with the council, long before the young people took over. He submitted his resignation, but retracted it when Mayor Jack Groom, his main adversary, resigned from the council instead.

The new councilmen last week forced Police Chief Tony Locarini to resign along with two planning commissioners. Both moves were over the strong objections of Dolinsek and Winter.

Donald and Lorraine Leivas, the only older residents at the meeting, joined the handful of young residents in urging the council declare a moratorium on building until the general plan can be updated and city services improved.

The group sat informally, some with feet propped uo on chairs, and agreed the Holiday Park subdivision detracted from Cotati's rural atmosphere and encouraged the council to hold fast against further urban intrusion.

Mrs. Leivas also suggested the council reject Salfen's plan to use the seven acres formally housing the sewer plant for a park. She said access would be difficult and the location impractical for a useful park and suggested instead the land be sold for perhaps $70,000 and money used to buy and develop more appropriate park sites.

The councilmen readily agreed with the plan and Miss Lombardi said she would consider naming Mrs. Leivas chairman of the newly recreated parks and recreation commission to carry the project through.

Although disappointed by the attendance, the council said it would plan a series of coffee klatsches in coming months and announce them in advance in a community newsletter that should be ready for distribution in a few weeks.

More Citizen Fireworks Over Mill Valley Rockfest

Mill Valley's Independence Day celebration and rock concert in Lytton Square — the target of dozens of angry complaints on July 4 — was blasted again last night at the Mill Valley City Council meeting.

The parade of attacks on the all-day celebration was begun by Alice McCabe, an elderly member of the audience who said she witnessed drunken girls, endless noise and broken wine bottles all over the streets.

She said she could enjoy the music for only 15 minutes. She said she was disgusted that the music continued for 10 hours. "Mill Valley is beginning to become a Woodstock and an Altamont," she fumed.

Councilman Robert E. Burton — who made the original motion to approve the celebration — said he attended for about three hours. "It did not come out in any way as I had in mind when I approved it," he said.

Councilman Gerald J. Hood added, "I publicly apologize for ever having voted for it."

After agreeing that the celebration was a failure, the council looked ahead toward next year, instructing parks and recreation director Don L. Dimitratos to plan a more family-oriented festival next year.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

SALARIES — Passed a resolution extending to Aug. 7 the period during which negotiated salary raises can become retroactive to July 1, for city employees.

FIRE STATION — Established a fire station building committee to monitor the progress in the construction of the proposed new fire station.

CUSHING DRIVE — Instructed the city attorney to draft the appropriate measure to declare Cushing Drive a towaway zone, at the request of nine out of 10 homeowners on the street.

SERVICE CHARGE — Abandoned the idea of hiring an outside firm to prepare rate formulae for the proposed sewer service charges and instructed the city manager to prepare a comparative study of other sewer service charges throughout Marin County.

TIDELANDS — Passed the first reading of an ordinance that would allow the city to regulate all excavating, construction and filling in the tideland area that surrounds Upper Richardson Bay.

COMMUNITY GARDEN — Approved the concept of a community garden on city-owned land, but postponed decision on funding until a budget hearing scheduled for July 31.

PARKING ZONES — Passed an ordinance establishing eight 12-minute metered parking zones in the downtown business area.

MEETING — Adjourned to a budget session to discuss revenue sources at 7:30 p.m. July 31.

Ferry Bidding Review Is Set

Unexpectedly high bids to build the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferries will be reviewed by its building and operating committee at 10 a.m. Friday in toll plaza offices.

The lowest bid last month, by Campbell Industries of San Diego, was almost $4.2 million more than the $7.8 million estimated by district officials for the first three vessels.

The officials have split over what to do, some arguing for redesign and rebid of the ferries, and others arguing rebidding merely would increase costs because of inflation.

Also on the agenda are plans for the district's permanent bus base in San Rafael on Sims Street.

Film Series Will Conclude On Friday

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission's film series will end Friday with a full program of cartoons in the Community Recreation Center.

Full-length feature films have been screened at earlier shows.

The cartoons will begin at 2 p.m. and end about 3:15 p.m. Films originally scheduled for the following two Friday afternoons have been canceled, parks and recreation Department officials said.

IRS May Find It Hard To Collect $2.95

The Internal Revenue Service may have a hard time collecting $2.95 from Betteye A. Doty, recently ordained minister of the Marin Fellowship of Unitarians in San Rafael.

Mrs. Doty deducted the amount from the federal tax portion of her telephone bill to protest the war in Southeast Asia.

The revenue service last month asked the congregation to deduct the $2.95 from her paycheck. Instead of a check, the tax collector received a letter from the executive committee of the fellowship stating its "full support" of Mrs. Doty's stand.

Since Mrs. Doty is not a direct employee, the letter stated, "further attempts to obtain this tax money via payroll deduction is not an appropriate avenue to follow."

People's Festival At Airbase Set

Hamilton Air Force Base will hold its third annual People's Festival, celebrating cultures of people of the world, from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. July 27.

The festival, to be held at the parking lot of the noncommissioned officers academy, will be centered around booths depicting aspects of various cultures, costumes, art and food.

Booths are being prepared to represent American Indians, Germany, the Hawaiian Islands, Afro-Americans, Great Britain, Mexico, Israel, the Netherlands, Italy, Japan, Spain, Panama, Puerto Rico, Chin and Russia.

The festival in the past has drawn up to 1,500 visitors.

1-Year E. Mill Valley Building Moratorium

The Mill Valley City Council last night passed an ordinance establishing a one-year moratorium on all building in East Mill Valley, surrounding upper Richardson Bay.

The measure was passed in an effort to halt uncontrolled development in the area until a master plan for east Mill Valley can be prepared.

Faced with two draft ordinances — each of which had passed first reading — the council adopted the more recent version, which had exempted two parcels within the boundaries from the building ban.

At a July5 meeting, the council introduced a second version of the moratorium ordinance which exempted a hillside parcel on Shelter Ridge overlooking Upper Richardson Bay, and a parcel along the Highway 101 frontage road, north of the Enco station and south of Sycamore Avenue.

Developer Warner Odenthal, the owner of the exempted Shelter Ridge parcel, told the council July 5 he had no immediate plans for the parcel. The owners of the frontage road strip hope to construct an athletic club-recreation center on the property.

The ordinance was adopted last night — with almost no discussion — on four yes votes and an abstention. Councilman Robert E. Capron did not participate in the discussion or the vote in order to avoid any possibility of conflict of interest.

Chinese, Soviet Trade Blossoms

By HARRY ELLIS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON — Trade appears to be blossoming along the path which President Nixon trod to the two Communist giants, China and the Societ Union.

Latest evidence is the announcement that the Soviets will buy $750 million worth of wheat and feed grains from the United States over a three-year period, beginning Aug. 1.

This is by far the largest commercial transaction ever signed by the two countries and, the White House hopes, may be prelude to a comprehensive long-range trade agreement between Washington and Moscow.

Such an agreement, plus the settlement of the Soviet Union's World War II debts to the United States, will be high on the agenda of Commerce Secretary Peter G. Peterson when he visits Moscow later this month.

The wheat sale followed the granting by the U.S. government of a $150 million export license to the Boeing Co. to cover the proposed sale to Communist China of 10 Boeing 707 jet airliners.

This deal, which would add American aircraft to China's expanding fleet of Soviet IL62's and British Trident jets, still is being negotiated by Chinese and Boeing officials.

In 1971 President Nixon lifted a nearly airtight embargo on China trade and published a list of 47 categories of nonstrategic goods which U.S. businessmen might export to Peking.

The first significant deal was the sale by RCA of a $2.9 million communications-satellite ground station to the Chinese. A number of American exporters attended the Canton Trade Fair in April of this year, and some sales followed.

Only now, however, with the prospective Boeing sale and the huge Soviet wheat deal, is U.S. trade with the Communist giants approaching big-league stature.

Last year, for example, two-way trade between the United States and mainland China amounted to $5 million, though Peking sent "indirect" exports—mainly via Hong Kong—worth another $5 million to the United States.

Soviet-American trade, by contrast, runs at a much higher volume. In 1972 the United States exported goods worth $162 million to the U.S.S.R. and bought $58 million worth of Soviet products in return.

Even this volume is dwarfed by the upcoming sale to the Russians of American wheat, corn, barley, sorghum, rye, and oats, which will boost U.S. exports to Moscow by more than $200 million yearly.

These figures show that the Soviets, as well as smaller Eastern European countries, run perennial deficits in their trade with the United States. Poland, whose ham finds a ready American market, is an exception.

The inability of Communist nations to balance their trade by selling equivalent amounts of their own goods limits U.S.-Eastern commerce. Communist nations generally have only meager hoards of hard currency with which to settle their Western trade deficits.

A striking feature of the wheat deal is the willingness of Moscow to pay for the grain in three equal annual installments, and an interest rate of about 6 per cent.

The Kremlin's consequent need to dip into its foreign-exchange reserves reflects, in the view of American officials, an urgent need to increase the protein content of what Soviet citizens eat.

China's position is privileged. Peking runs a substantial trade surplus with Hong Kong, Singapore, and Macao. This surplus—plus earnings from the sale of opium abroad—pours foreign exchange into Peking's coffers.

Thus China, though it strives to balance its trade on a world-wide basis, feels less constraint to even the books with individual Western nations.

Even the latest deals with the U.S.S.R. and China leave the United States considerably behind West Germany in trade with the Communist world. The Germans, for example, have signed a billion-dollar deal with Moscow, under which the Soviets will deliver natural gas in return for hundreds of miles of West German pipeline.

Economics aside, the Soviet grains sale is an electoral boon for President Nixon. The deal is expected to create thousands of jobs from the farm to dockside.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Underwater Swimming: Losing Consciousness Is A Danger

Many persons lose consciousness while swimming underwater. Some drown, others are rescued. Accidents such as these are most likely to occur when the individual stays under too long, due mainly to sheer will power. Their oxygen is used up during exertion and when this takes place, the mind goes blank.

Before diving into the water, the individual breathes deeply (hyperventilates) for a minute to accumulate more oxygen and decrease carbon dioxide in the blood. This may or may not help the situation, because lack of carbon dioxide allows him to swim farther without developing the urge to breathe.

Several years ago, Dr. Albert B. Craig of Rochester, N.Y., made a detailed study involving several boys who got into trouble after swimming underwater for too long a time.

ONE WAS an 18-year-old who decided to swim three laps underwater in a 75-foot pool. He followed the usual breathing procedure and dived in, even though he felt dizzy. On turning to complete the third lap, he suddenly had the urge to breathe. This reminded him of his goal and so he continued.

When he reached the end of the pool, he failed to come up. A friend reached down and grabbed him by the hair to get his head out of the water.

The young man coughed, gasped, and regained consciousness within a few minutes. He did not remember swimming the last lap. Our swimmer was lucky his friend was nearby. According to Dr. Craig, some long distance underwater swimmers drown, even though they are excellent and experienced swimmers. Never try it unless someone is watching.

IT IS UNREALISTIC to believe that the ability to swim underwater is as useful as swimming on the surface. Underwater swimming is not necessarily harmful, but, except in rare emergencies, it serves no useful purpose. It may also have an adverse effect upon the eyes and occasionally leads to sinus or ear trouble.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

FATTY TUMOR

V.G.B. writes: Last week my doctor informed me that I have a fatty tumor on one leg. He made no further comment. Should I forget about it?

REPLY

These tumors are not cancerous. Removal is called for only when they get in the way or are unslightly.

BE MODERATE

A.D. writes: Is coffee bad for a person with hypertension?

REPLY

A cup or two a day will do harm, but overstimulation should be avoided. How about using caffeine-free coffee?

SOCIAL DRINKING

E. A. writes: Is social drinking harmful to a nervous person?

REPLY

Not if a drink or two relaxes the individual. It is risky if the nervousness is caused by an unstable nervous system.

WORRY AND WEIGHT

F. E. writes: Whenever I have a spell of worrying, I lose weight. Is this natural?

REPLY

Yes, for the thin person. When fatties are worried they often seek solace by eating more.

'71 Titlist To Stay At Home

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—The director of the Miss Universe pageant said Monday night that the Lebanese government had refused to allow Georgina Rizk, the 1971 titlist, to leave the country to crown her successor in this year's contest beginning Wednesday.

Herbert K. Landon said not only was Lebanon keeping Miss Rizk at home but would not send a contestant to this year's pageant.

The Lebanese consul in San Juan, Salibe Tartak, said Miss Rizk was afraid of possible terrorist acts such as the bombings that disrupted the Miss USA pageant at the Cerromar Beach Hotel in May.

Wolfback Plan Review Tonight

A revised tentative map for a subdivision on 160 acres of Sausalito's Wolfback Ridge will be considered by the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

At its July 5 meeting, the council recommended that developers Frank Lynch and Edward R. Fitzsimmons change their map to insure that nature features of the ridge, such as rock knolls, ridgelines and springs, are preserved before presenting it again.

The council also asked that the developers utilize cluster housing in what had been planned as a single-family home subdivision.

At that meeting, the council promised to "look favorably" on the map if it were resubmitted with the recommended changes.

Judge Halts Grading On Little King

A Marin Superior Court judge yesterday forbade further grading on Larkspur's closely watched Little King Mountain at least until May 1973, but the decision represented only a partial victory for grading foes.

Judge E. Warren McGuire issued a temporary injunction against the estate of Adolph A. Tiscornia after concluding from testimony that more than 500 cubic yards had been moved both last October and between February and May of this year without a required permit.

But he has yet to decide whether the city council and planning commission justifiably turned down a permit to move up to 350,000 cubic yards of dirt from the crown of Little King to the flat land across Magnolia Avenue.

He said he would decide that issue in about two weeks.

The estate, run by Alice B. Copeland Vincilione and her husband, Paul, has been trying since 1968 to grade the bald peak ringed by trees, but the battle spilled into the courts only after the city council buried a grading plan in May.

The council voted 3-2 on May 1 to deny a permit request and — although it had decided to reconsider the matter — made the tally 5-0 when it learned of the illegal grading.

The city sued and the Vinciliones retaliated by asking the court to order a permit be issued. Attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing the land interests, has argued that the city failed to show the project would hurt citizens and therefore had no right to deny the earth-moving.

The estate wants to move the dirt to prepare both Little King and the lowland next to Corte Madera Creek for development. Myers has insisted it will cost an additional $360,000 to import fill.

Innocent Plea By Barger To Murder

OAKLAND (UPI) —Ralph (Sonny) Barger, once the president of the Hells Angels Motorcycle Club, pleaded innocent Monday in Alameda County Superior Court to charges of murder, arson and possessing narcotics.

Judge William McGuiness set bail at $150,000 and said he would set a trial date Friday.

Barger was arrested in the fatal shooting of Severo Agero, 29, whose body was found in May in the bathtub of a burning house.

Judge McGuiness set $100,000 as the bail for Sergy Walton and Gary Popkin, codefendants who also pleaded innocent to the same charges.

Donald Smith, codefendant who was not charged with arson, pleaded innocent to murder and narcotics charges and his bail was set at $75,000.

Planners Talk Of Quakes, Undergo A Minor Tremor

The Novato Planning Commission underwent a slight tremor last night while reviewing proposed policies on seismic, geologic, fire and flood hazards that would set building bans, limitations and a moratorium on development.

The rumble came when Commissioner James Picchi charged the commission was taking a "negative attitude" in "talking of eliminating the use of land," and should take a positive approach. "I don't think we should be saying 'no this. . .no that. . .none of this." I think it's being overly restrictive," Picchi said.

Commissioners, considering revisions to the Novato Area General Plan, didn't take any action on the sweeping proposals submitted by the planning staff, but agreed they were appropriate for further discussion.

The proposed earthquake and geologic hazards policy would ban buildings "designed for human occupancy" within one mile of either side of the Mount Burdell fault trace.

Such a restriction would cover a two-mile strip through East Novato from San Marin Drive and Highway 101 to just south of Bel Marin Keys.

Staff members and commissioners agreed that such a wide path might not be necessary, and the width was subject to further study.

The proposed flood policy would place a moratorium on building within the Novato Creek Flood Control project flood plain, an area that would cover a large part of downtown Novato, until a project study by Novato Flood Control Zone's consultant was completed.

The proposed fire policy would require any development higher than 200 feet to provide its own water storage with sufficient volume and pressure to protect it against fire.

Also proposed were restrictions against building on slopes where landslides were likely to occur.

Picchi said the commission instead of "being negative," should be telling people, given such hazardous conditions, what they can do.

Chairman John C. Schoonover said the commission had to determine what should be restricted because of the fault. "We can't just do nothing," he said.

The commission also discussed a noise element for the general plan which would be designed to minimize the intrusion of noise associated with modern transportation.

Joint civilian-military air use at Hamilton Air Force Base was included, but Schoonover was prompt to comment that adoption of such a policy shouldn't "be taken as a representation of planning commission approval of joint use of Hamilton Air Force Base."

The wording was changed to read that "if planning" for commercial use at the base, the city should evaluate the maximum level of use.

Under the proposed noise policy, when the noise from commercial use at the base violated standards, Marin County would have to purchase the land affected through eminent domain or a noise easement.

"This puts the county on notice the city doesn't want noise impinging on residents," said Mark Williams, a planning technician.

As proposed, the city would designate "flyover" corridors, and residential development would be discouraged under the "flyover" areas where noise would be excessive.

At the close of the discussion, Planning Director Brian W. Mattson commented: "There's no question, some of this will have to be rewritten and some reevaluated."

Prior to the general plan revision session, the commission, together with the city parks and recreation commission and the Novato Environmental Quality Control Committee, heard a report on the Novato Flood Control Zone's report on Novato Creek flood control.

The study by consultants Royston, Hanamoto, Beck and Abey recommended a $2.9 million project which would leave creek channels in their natural state, with a modified Army Corps of Engineers project as the alternative at a cost of $10.2 million, including $2.4 million in local funds.

Lewis E. Frederickson, assistant county flood control engineer, said a public hearing on the report will be held at 8 p.m. Aug. 24 at Novato Community House.

The commission adjourned until 7 p.m. Monday for a joint session with the Novato City Council on revisions to the general plan to be followed by a regular commission meeting at the Novato Community House.

Busing Is Approved For 62 Old Mill Kindergarten Pupils

The Mill Valley School District Board last night approved a plan to bus kindergarten pupils and their teachers from the Old Mill School to the Alto-Edna Maguire facility.

The measure was adopted for one year starting in September to relieve overcrowding at the elementary school. It will affect 62 entering kindergarten pupils who live in the area.

Two other proposals had been considered to ease what Mrs. Della Mae Carry, an Old Mill kindergarten teacher, had termed "an impossible situation" at the school.

One would have kept two kindergarten classes of 25 pupils each at Old Mill, with one class meeting mornings, the other in the afternoon. The 12 remaining kindergarten pupils scheduled to start at Old Mill this fall would be bused to Alto-Edna Maguire.

The plan was rejected by the board as "unfair."

The board also considered holding kindergarten sessions in the public library or in the Church of Our Saviour across the street from Old Mill. No space is available in the library, according to Supt. James A. Collins.

The church was rejected after Collins said he doubted the structure could pass Field Act earthquake safety standards required for schools.

The board debated and heard the opinions of parents during the special meeting.

The school's parent-Teacher Association had first come up with the proposal. It has the blessing of Old Mill's two kindergarten teachers, as well as the support of principal Clare Broadhead.

Supt. Collins liked the plan because of what he called its "built-in educational advantages." Kindergarten pupils at the more spacious Alto-Edna Maguire School would have ample storage space, he said, and room to play. They would all be able to attend morning classes, he added.

Most parents in the audience spoke for the busing plan. Some wanted to make sure there would be close supervision of children on the daily 10-minute bus ride from Old Mill to Alto-Edna Maguire. Chairman John G. Eliot Jr. suggested the PTA come up with a program to have parents volunteer to ride with the youngsters.

The proposal was adopted by a four-one vote with trustee John H. Cutler voting against it.

The board also voted to declare the new Middle School complete as of July 12. This will relieve the builder, Dickman Construction Company, of the $200-a-day fine the school district has been withholding from payments since May 30 — the day the structure was supposed to be complete.

Dickman construction now has 35 days from July 12 to finish about 200 minor jobs on the new building. If the contractor fails to complete them within that time period, the district could withhold five times the cost of eachunfinished job from the final $250,000 payment.

The board stipulated that "acceptance of completion" didn't excuse the contractor of completing the remaining work on the building.

Golden Gate City Retains Record

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Golden Gate City has kept its record intact with the highest rates of suicide and death by cirrhosis of the liver in the United States, according to a report by the Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Cirrhosis of the liver, an ailment often caused by heavy drinking, accounted for 410 deaths last year in this city which has the highest alcohol consumption in the nation. The rate was 58.3 per 100,000 population, three times that of the state figure and four times the national rate.

Suicides were reported at twice the California rate and more than three times for the rest of the country.

But heart disease, cancer, strokes and accidents were given as the major causes of death, with cirrhosis of the liver and suicides following as major causes.

Three Judge Panel Hears Bank Case

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union argued in federal court Monday that the "Bank Secrecy Act" would mean "wholesale violations of the rights of millions of individuals."

ACLU attorney Neil Horton said only a small percentage of bank records would be useful to the government.

The challenge to the new regulations was taken under submission by a panel of three judges. They also extended a temporary order holding up enforcement of the reporting portion of the act until a decision was reached.

The temporary order was issued June 30th and said banks should maintain the records but need not report them to the government pending determination of the issue. It was signed by U.S. District Judge William T. Sweigert.

Banker Fortney Stark and the ACLU filed suit against the act June 7. The California Bankers Association later joined the action.

Horton argued Monday that the government doesn't have the unlimited right to obtain information. He said it must prove a reasonable relation between the information sought and the government's purpose.

The attorney drew an analogy to the situation of Congress passing a law ordering all telephone conversations monitored by the utility.

"No doubt there would be malefactors caught but the law would surely be ruled unconstitutional," he said.

Another ACLU attorney, Charles Marson, said that controversial organizations are entitled to protect their members. He said this could not be done if their checking accounts were open to surveillance.

Bankers Association attorney John Anderson argued that the "assurance of privacy" was an essential element of customer service.

He also said the cost to California bankers would be $50,000 a month to microfilm the front and back of each of the estimated 250 million checks that pass the tellers cages each month.

"We don't want to be diarists of our customers' financial lies," said Anderson.

A government attorney, John J. McCarthy of the Department of Justice Tax Division, said the bankers and the ACLU had no standing to bring suit.

"Depositors have no inherent interest in bank records," McCarthy argued. "And there is no right of privacy for bank customers."

Reed Budget Due Adoption Tonight

The Reed School District board will make last minute changes and consider adoption of its $2.4 million publication budget for 1972-73 at its meeting at 8 p.m. today.

According to District Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, the school board will precede its regular meeting with a closed session to instruct the superintendent on pending salary negotiations. Giovanniello said an agreement might be reached at tonight's closed session.

Conservationist Win On Limantour

By MARLENE FREEDMAN

Complying with pleas from conservationists, the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission recommended last night that the Limantour Spit area of Point Reyes National Seashore be designated "a fragile natural area."

The commission, which is also an advisory committee for the seashore, listened to conservationists and West Marin residents for several hours argue for more protection for the spit.

The issue developed as part of a discussion of the new bus shuttle service at the park. The weekend service, started earlier this month as a trial project by the Marin Transit District, originally dropped off passengers at the spit and at Santa Maria Beach, about 300 yards further south. The Santa Maria Beach stop was subsequently eliminated and conservationists lamented that this was sending more visitors to the ecologically fragile spit, endangering fish and birds there.

Jerry Friedman of the Environmental Action Committee of West Marin claimed "serious objections" to the placement and content of signs in the area. He noted that a sign proclaims "Limantour Beach" stands near one announcing, "Drake's Beach, 15 miles," thus encouraging visitors to go to the Limantour area. "This is a grave injustice", he said, asserting the fragility of natural resources of the spit.

John Smail, director of the Point Reyes Bird Observatory, echoed concern, predicting "severe degradation" if beach activities on the spit are allowed and encouraged.

Seashore Supt. John L. Sansing countered with, "We don't think that there's any big deal about the spit, frankly." He added that the National Park Service had done a service by creating a parking lot at the end of Balboa Drive, thus consolidating auto parking in one place instead of indiscriminate parking along two miles of beachfront.

He defended the elimination of the bus stop at Santa Maria Beach on the grounds of time-saving for the bus schedule and noise to residents in the area.

Commissioner Merritt Robinson went even further than the conservationists, urging a complete closure of the access road to Limantour Spit and Santa Maria Beach, sending beachgoers to Drake's Beach.

Sansing objected to such a move, noting that more than 100,000 people used the spit area last year even when there was no access road.

The commission proposed a compromise, recommending to the National Park Service that it remove all signs designating the area as "Limantour Beach" and substitute signs saying "Limantour; Fragile Natural Area" and that the shuttle bus resume a stop at Santa Maria Beach.

The commission also:

RETRIEVER TRIALS — Postponed action on a decision on whether to recommend the continuance of retriever trials trials on park lands. The sport had been held at the park before it was made a national seashore, but complaints had been received concerning ill effects on wildlife by 300 dogs and shooting of rifles.

MEETING — Scheduled its next meeting for Sept. 28.

Gabriel Out Month With Collapsed Lung

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Los Angeles quarterback Roman Gabriel will be sidelined for at least one month after suffering a collapsed right lung.

Gabriel was throwing the football in a non-contact drill at the Rams' Long Beach camp Monday, his first day of practice, when he complained of feeling ill. He was taken to Long Beach Community Hospital, where a tube was inserted into his right lung through a small incision in his back.

Dr. Jules Rasinski Jr., team physician for the Rams, said that it was a common illness, caused by a rupturing of a small air cyst at the top of the lung, and that Gabriel might be released from the hospital as early as Wednesday.

The doctor added that if there are no complications, Gabriel can take part in contact scrimmage in about three weeks and return to competition in a month.

With the start of the exhibition season less than two weeks away, activity is beginning to pick up at the various National Football League training camps.

The Detroit camp was made happier when backup quarterback Bill Munson, who had played out his option in 1971, ended his holdout by signing a multi-year contract. Munson, an eight-year veteran, apparently has resigned himself to playing behind Greg Landry.

However, at Irvine, Calif., the San Diego Chargers found themselves once more without receiver Billy Parks, who reported to camp on Sunday and then went home. Parks, sidelined by an injury midway through the 1971 season, apparently is bothered by a hamstring muscle problem.

Also missing from the Charger camp are All-League guard Walt Sweeney and linebacker Pete Barnes. Coach Harland Svare said each would be fined $150 for every day missed and "no fines will be rescinded."

In other camps: The Washington Redskins cut two rookies, defensive back Steve Higginbotham and defensive lineman Kevin Clemente; the Dallas Cowboys reported minor injuries to five players, including a knee injury to cornerback Mark Washington; middle linebacker Tim Roosovich and defensive back Bill Bradley were absent from the Philadelphia Eagles' camp at Reading, Pa., and Coach Eddie Khayat said both would be fined.

The entire squad of 47 veterans and 27 rookies worked out in pads at the Pittsburgh camp at Latrobe, Pa., and Coach Chuck Noll said wide receiver Jon Staggers, who checked in earlier in the day from military duty, looked "very impressive;" and Green Bay Coach Dan Devine cited the pass rushing of rookies Dave Pureifory, a defensive end, and Charlie Burrell, a defensive tackle.

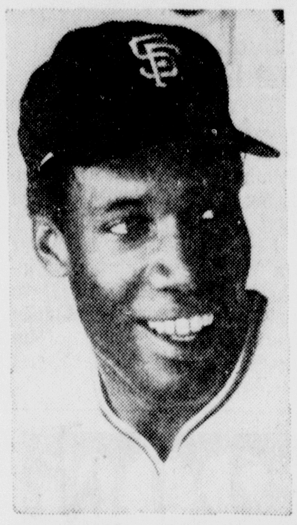
Mr. Good Guy Award To Deserving Giant

By RALPH CHATOIAN

Mr. Good Guy. That's an apt description of Giant outfielder Bobby Bonds. The San Francisco Giants Boosters of Northern California will plant this honor on Bonds tomorrow night at their meeting at Rubini's Restaurant in Fairfax.

"Good Guy Award of 1972" is the official name of the prize to be awarded to the popular right fielder. Also attending the dinner meeting will be Garry Maddox, rookie center fielder for S. F. Booster president Allan Murray expects a sellout but might have a reservation or two left. He can be reached at GTS Travel in San Rafael.



BOBBY BONDS

JAN AND KEVIN BRINK of Mill Valley enjoy their bicycle riding so much they're even riding their bikes from their home to school. So what, you ask? Jan goes to Dartmouth University and Kevin is a student at Philips Academy at Exeter, both in the State of New Hampshire.

Jan, 19, will be a sophomore defensive end at Dartmouth and Kevin, 17, will be playing baseball on the Philips prep school team. The two boys, sons of former Los Angeles Ram defensive end Larry Brink, used Stinson Beach as a starting point last week so it will really be a coast to coast trip.

Their older brother, Barry, was also a defensive lineman for Dartmouth and played in the 1970 East-West and Hula Bowl all-star games.

STEPHEN GRAVES of Novato is 74 but still winning tennis tournaments. A retired YMCA secretary who also plays handball, squash and is an avid hiker, Graves won the 70 or older division of the Captain Weber Days tennis tourney in Stockton. He defeated Bill Mallory of Stockton in the finals Sunday, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3. The Novato man was a finalist in the 1970 National Seniors Hard Court Tennis Tournament in his age division. He started playing tennis at the age of 13, and like the Brinks, is a Dartmouth man.

SCOTT DUNCAN, his hair a little shorter, is in Los Angeles getting ready for the Shrine North-South prep all-star football game. Duncan was given the word that his hair would have to be trimmed prior to reporting when he attended a dinner meeting with Shrine officials and other members of the North team June 4 at Bellarmine High in San Francisco.

Duncan, a young man who didn't want to make waves and did indeed want to play in this prestigious game on July 27, said before he left San Rafael, "Oh well, it (the hair) will grow back." But, the halfback said about the order to get his locks trimmed, "I think it's ridiculous."

WITH THE I-J, SAN RAFAEL Parks and Rec-sponsored youth tennis tournament starting next Monday, it's great to see that another Klyce is handling the chore of tournament director. Bob Klyce, 20, of the San Rafael tennis family, is in charge of things. Oldest of the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Klyce is Harvey, 27, followed by Ron, 25, Tom, 22, Bob, and Kevin, 12.

"Bob was born on July 3, a day before the Fourth of July," said Mrs. Klyce. "I guess that's why he's the liveliest of all five boys."

GIANTS EYE 4TH

Expos Trek To San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—It will be Ron Bryant tonight and Juan Marichal Wednesday afternoon as the San Francisco Giants host Montreal in a mini series.

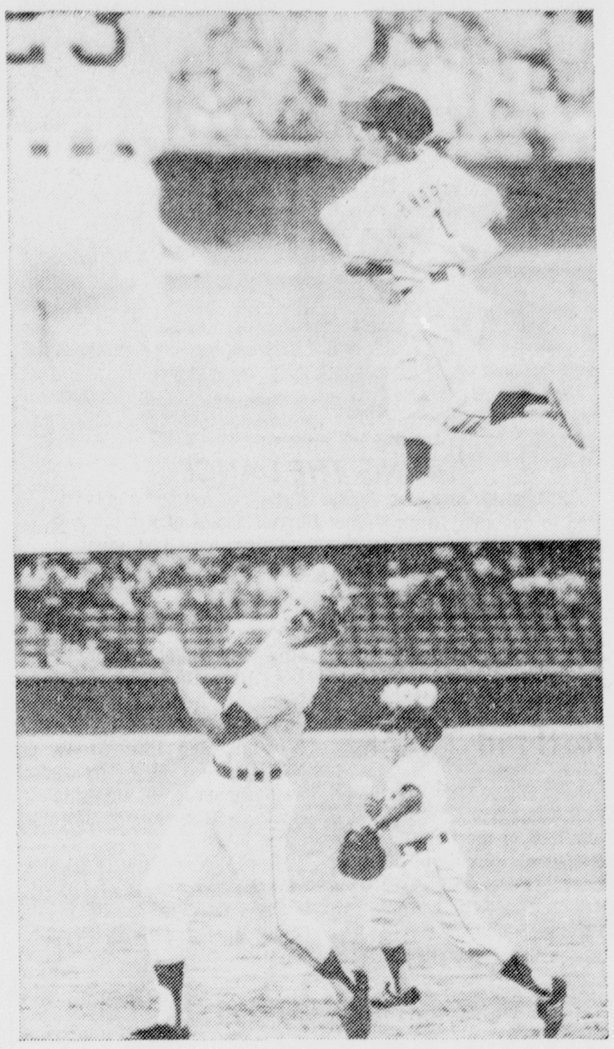
The Giants have closed to within 1 1-2 games of fourth-place Atlanta with their solid play of late and might catch the Braves before next week's All-Star break.

But the Giants will play those games without mammoth Dave Kingman, who suffered a wrenched ankle while unsuccessfully sliding back into first base on a pickoff play against Philadelphia. Kingman was sliding even though he was the first baseman trying to nail the runner.

While the Giants can always use long-ball power such as is provided by Kingman, if they have to have an injury, it might as well be to a first-baseman. Willie McCovey and Ed Goodson are solid performers there for the Giants.

Kingman can also play third, but Al Gallagher, last year's regular, is getting a chance to play regularly. Kingman can also play in the outfield, but now Ken Henderson can also play regularly and try to break out of the worst slump in his career.

Meanwhile, another slumping Giant, pitcher Sam McDowell, was examined Monday by doctors trying to find out why he has an ache in his left shoulder. They found nothing wrong with the shoulder, but did discover a mild circulatory problem which they said could have an effect on the shoulder, causing cold and numbness in the fingers.



JUST 'KIDDING' AROUND

Seven-year-old Billy Martin Jr. took his father's advice literally and "stole" second base yesterday during the Detroit Tigers' father-son game prior to their regular home clash with the Chicago White Sox. His father is Tigers' manager Billy Martin. Below, Antonio Taylor, seven-year-old son of second baseman Tony Taylor, chased Tiger Jim Northrup with the ball before dropping it.

THIS WEEK

Oakland Has 3 Doubleheaders

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Oakland Athletics now have to play three doubleheaders this week, since Monday night's game with the Brewers here was rained out.

That means that Joel Horlen (2-1) and Catfish Hunter (11-4) will hurl in a twi-nighter today with the A's here for one Wednesday and at Boston for doubleheaders Thursday and Saturday and single contests Friday and Sunday.

But skipper Dick Williams didn't seem too concerned about the nine games in six days. Theres nothing like a deep pitching staff and an eight game lead for a skipper's confidence.

"We'll just use our regular pitching rotation—every one gets three days rest," he said. "We may go to the bullpen a lot, but then there's the All-Star break (next Monday through Wednesday) so we should be okay.

That means it will be John Odom Wednesday, Ken Holtzman and Vida Blue Thursday, Dave Hamilton Friday, Hunter and Horlen Saturday and Odom Sunday.

One guy who was glad to see the rainout was shortstop Campy Campaneris, who sat out Sunday's game with a sprained thumb. He planned to start Monday, but admitted he was glad for the rest.

The A's are on a four-game win streak, having just swept the New York Yankees four times. Meanwhile, Chicago continued its losing ways Monday night against Detroit and has fallen from 3 1-2 to 8 behind in a week.

Campbell Is In Hull-Canada Row

MONTREAL (UPI)—National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell complained Monday that Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau had refused to discuss the Bobby Hull-Team Canada issue with him.

Trudeau last Friday sent a telegram to Campbell, NHL Players' Association President Gordon Berenson and Hockey Canada President Charles Hay urging them to see to it Canada's best players, among them Hull, be used in the eight-game Canada-Russia hockey series this fall.

AN ATTEMPT

Campbell said he had tried to reach Trudeau to discuss the matter.

"However, he refused to answer my call or talk to me," Campbell said, adding he did not know whether anything further would be done by the NHL.

Hull was among the 35 players named to Team Canada last week but it became obvious immediately he could not participate in the series.

Under Hockey Canada's agreement with the NHL and Players' Association, only players with NHL contracts as of Aug. 13 may for part of the team. Hull quit the Chicago Black Hawks June 28 to join the Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association.

'JUMPED'

Campbell said that as far as the NHL was concerned Hull had "jumped his contract" as each standard NHL contract provides that an athlete remains bound to a club until traded or given his unconditional release.

Support for Hull, which began almost at once following the announcement of Team Canada's makeup last week, continued Monday.

Montreal radio station CJAD prepared a petition accompanied by a list of signatures from 9,066 listeners which will be sent by telegraph employes to Trudeau care of CJAD and then delivered to the Prime Minister at noon Wednesday by two station employes.

'TO MOSCOW'

In Montreal and Toronto, billboards reading, "To Moscow with Hull," and, in smaller letters, "Write Clarence Campbell," made their appearance.

Hopes the NHL Players' Association might enter the dispute, raised when the association called a news conference, came to nothing. The "important announcement" promised turned out to be the sale of television rights to the series to the privately-owned CTV network.

The conference took place moments before a seven-man delegation left for Moscow, where it was to put the final touches on arrangements for the series before traveling to Sweden, where Team Canada is expected to play a number of exhibition games.

Conners Turns Up At Raiders' Camp

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—The training camp has just begun for the Oakland Raiders and already they have some good news.

Veteran middle linebacker Dan Conners, who was a free agent after playing out his option, turned up in camp Monday and indicated he was in near agreement with the Raiders over a new contract.

SHERMAN

With Conners' arrival, only one veteran's status seems uncertain. Wide receiver Rod Sherman is missing without permission.

Sherman has had a lengthy feud with the Raiders' management over his desire to play more, but his wish seems farther from fulfillment than ever this season. Not only is Warren Wells back with the team after a year's absence, but Oakland also has rookie hotshots Mike Siani and Cliff Branch at that position.

REQUEST

Other veterans are still missing from training camp such as Ben Davidson, Jim Otto, Tom Keating, George Blanda and Bob Brown, but they requested a delay in reporting. Sherman didn't.

Meanwhile, in Santa Barbara, Allen Dunbar, a wide receiver from Southern University, recorded the fastest time in 40-yard wind sprints Monday at the San Francisco 49ers training camp.

Dunbar, a third-round draft choice, was timed in 4.5 seconds in the afternoon workout.

JANET

Defensive backs Ralph McGill from Tulsa and Windlan Hall from Arizona State College were both timed at 4.6. Ernie Janet, a guard on last year's taxi uquad, had the best time for a lineman with a 5.1 clocking.

In the morning session, defense backs and receivers ran through one-on-one drills.

Thirty-one rookies and two veterans are in camp. The remaining vets will arrive Wednesday.

Moffitt Family's Baseball, Net Stars

EMERYVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — Being called Randy Moffitt's sister is a new twist for Wimbledon tennis champion Billie Jean King

But for 22-year-old San Francisco Giants pitcher Randy it's a change from all the years that he's been referred to as Billie Jean's brother.

The brother-sister banter was taking place at Mrs. King's apartment where her parents and brother had gathered to hear about her Wimbledon final win against Australia's Evonne Goolagong July 7.

Husband Larry King was on Army Reserve duty at Camp Roberts near San Luis Obispo down the coast.

Billie Jean said she'd gone out to the ball park Sunday to watch the Giants' 10-7 win over the Philadelphia Phils.

"Believe me," she said, "it was a real kick being referred to as Randy Moffitt's sister."

"Remember, I've been called Billie Jean's brother for a good many years," retorted her brother, six years her junior.

She was obviously pleased at Randy's success in the big leagues — one win, several saves and a 2.73 earned run average in 33 innings.

Sinatra Blasts Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Entertainer Frank Sinatra accused the House Select Committee on Crime today of permitting a former organized-crime enforcer to engage in "character assassination" against him.

Sinatra lectured the committee for not promptly refuting the May 24 testimony of Joseph "The Baron" Barboza, who sought to connect Sinatra with a New England crime syndicate headed by Raymont Patriarca.

"This bum went running the mouth," an angry Sinatra declared. "I resent it. I'm not a second class citizen. Let's get that straight."

Spectators packed into the ornate Senate Caucus Room "oohed" at Sinatra's sharp remarks.

"How do you repair the damage done in the newspapers?" he asked. Then he held up a newspaper clipping and read its headline: "'Witness Links Sinatra To Reputed Mafia Figure.'"

"That's charming," Sinatra said sarcastically, "And that's all hear-say testimony isn't it?"

"Yes it is," responded Committee Counsel Joseph Phillips.

Phillips and Committee chairman Claude Pepper acknowledged that Sinatra had never held any interest in the Fontainebleu Hotel in Miami Beach. Barboza had testified that Patriarca had told him that Sinatra held an interest in the Hotel as a front for Patriarca.

Pepper and Phillips conceded that Sinatra had every right to complain about Barboza's testimony. But they said the statement from Barboza was not expected and at the time they had no idea whether it was true or not.

However Sinatra contended that the committee should have cleared the record as soon as it ascertained that there was no "truth" to Barboza's charge.

"How would we have done that?" asked Phillips, now almost in the position of being a witness rather than an interrogator.

The committee has been trying to talk to Sinatra since May but has met a series of obstacles. Pepper said it was about to serve him with a subpoena in Baltimore on May 19 when the entertainer briefly stepped out of retirement and sang at a function honoring his friend and golfing companion, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

But Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., according to Pepper, informed the committee that Sinatra wanted to be spared the embarrassment and would testify without a subpoena.

The next thing the committee knew Sinatra was in Europe, where U.S. subpoenas cannot be served with any legal effect.

On June 27, according to Pepper, Sinatra agreed through his attorney to testify voluntarily today.

The fiery-tempered Sinatra denies the existence of the Mafia, the shadowy organized crime network allegedly transported to the United States from Italy.

The singer has also maintained close associations with powerful politicians. In 1960 he was considered a friend of the late John F. Kennedy and reached a pinnacle of social and political success in 1961 when he escorted Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy to her husband's presidential Inaugural Ball.

But Sinatra's continued association with such characters as reputed Chicago kingpin Sam Giancana eventually cost him his entree to the Kennedy White House.

Fog's Adverse Effect In Area Boat Fishing

By AL GIDDINGS

What unbelievable weather! Sunday morning I took a backroad patrol through the Bolinas ridges, and many times I was traveling through six inches of water — the results of the heavy fog, which created a raining effect off the trees to the roadway ruts.

The winds blew from the edges of the fog, churning San Pablo Bay into a rough water area, and generally stopped most boat fishing, even overturning some sailboats. In Tomales, the winds causing a tragic boat mishap to one of Marin County's most jovial sheriff's deputies, Gerald Tanner.

On other notes: The waterfowl regulations for the California 1972-73 hunting seasons will be adopted by the Fish and Game Commission at its Aug. 18 meeting in San Francisco. The duck and goose hunting seasons and limits will be adopted within the framework for migratory waterfowl established by the U.S. Dept. of the Interior.

THE DOVE and pigeon seasons will be formally adopted July 28 when the commissioners meet in Fort Bragg. The first portion of the dove season will probably begin Friday, Sept. 1, and run through Saturday, Sept. 30. The second half would run from Saturday, Nov. 25, through Sunday, Dec. 10 — a 16 day season. The daily bag and possession limit would be 10 and 20.

The bandtailed pigeon season would run from Saturday, Sept. 30, through Sunday, Oct. 29, in the northern counties of Del Norte, Siskiyou, Modoc, Lassen, Shasta, Humboldt, Mendocino, Trinity, Tehama, Glenn, Butte, Plumas and Sierra. In the balance of the state the season will run from Dec. 16 through Jan. 14. The daily bag and possession limit would be eight and eight. Shooting hours on both doves and pigeons are from one half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Reestablishment of the California bighorn sheep on a portion of its former range in northern California appeared well under way this month with the announcement by the Department of Fish and Game of the births of three more lambs to the transplanted animals.

THE LATEST births brought to four the number of lambs born to the band that was transplated to the lava beds National Monument south of Tulelake, Siskiyou County, eight months ago. The first lamb was born in May.

Location of the transplant is a 1,100-acre enclosure of steep, rocky country from where the last California bighorn disappeared more than 60 years ago.

Ten sheep — eight ewes and two rams — were brought to the site from British Columbia in a cooperative project of the DFG, the National Park Service, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Forest Service and U.S. Bureau of Land Management.

All of the lambs are doing well, according to Jim Blaisdale, a biologist with the National Park Service who has been studying the animals since they reached the site last October.

THE DFG said that the successful lambing indicates that the site is satisfactory, since suitable lambing cover was a consideration in its selection.

According to the DFG, the site, which ranges in elevation to 6,000 feet, is very similar to the Fraser River county from which tha sheep were transplanted.

Large numbers of bighorn were found throughout their range in California in the 1850s. Increasing human activity, including use by domestic sheep, and hard winters steadily reduced their numbers. The bighorn have been fully protected in California for more than a century.

Small, scattered populations of California bighorn sheep are found along the eastern ridge of the Sierra from Mono County southward. The total California population of the species is estimated at about 225 animals.

McCovey 'Stand-In' Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

HOUSTON — First baseman Lee May of the Houston Astros thinks he is a stand-in for Willie McCovey in balloting for the All-Star team, but it doesn't bother him.

McCovey, the San Francisco Giants veteran star, broke a wrist in mid-April and only recently returned to the lineup.

"I know McCovey would have been the people's choice," May said Monday."McCovey would have been the favorite if he hadn't been injured and missed all that time.

"McCovey always runs away with it," May said. "Coming in second behind a man like that, you don't feel so bad."

May led the All-Star voting for first base with 688,581 votes. Tony Perez of Cincinnati was second and McCovey third at 414,804 votes.

Yachting

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. — The skipper of Kahili II decided to stay on course while the ship he was chasing in the 48th annual Port Huron to Mackinac Island Yacht Race started tacking.

"We thought we had lost the race to Sassy," said Kahili II skipper Frank Zurn, who guided the Erie Yacht Club ship to first place in the 306-mile race with a corrected time of 38.42.23.

Sassy, the new craft owned by Dutch Schmidt of Mount Clements, went on to finish the race, first, with a corrected time of 39.03.04, then followed by the 12-meter boats Northern Light and Weatherly, and then Kahili II.

Baseball

BOSTON — Shortstop Luis Aparicio, sidelined for the last three weeks with a broken finger, will not play in next week's All-Star game.

Dr. Thomas Tierney, team physician for the Boston Red Sox, said Monday night the 38-year-old infielder from Maracaibo, Venezuela, will undergo X-rays Wednesday to determine how the finger on his left hand is healing.

Hockey

VANCOUVER — The trial of two Vancouver Canucks hockey club executives was scheduled to open today following rejection of a defense bid Monday for a two-month delay.

Tom Scallen and Lyman Walters, both directors of the U.S.-based company Medicor, are charged with theft of about $3 million in the transfer of hockey club funds.

Golf

NEW YORK — All the money and glory Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus collected for their one-two finish in the British Open are not reflected in the weekly list of money winners of the Professional Golfers Association since the event at Muilford is not part of the regular tour.

There was only one change in the top ten for the week, that seeing Grier Jones, who tied for second in the Greater Milwaukee Open, gaining the ninth spot on the list.

Tennis

WASHINGTON — Tournament favorite John Newcombe and fellow Australian Rod Laver, apparently angry because he was not seeded, posted easy victories Monday in the opening round of the $50,000 Washington Star International Tennis Championships.

Newcombe, the 1971 Wimbledon champion, defeated F. D. Robbins of Salt Lake City 6-1, 7-6. Laver, the game's only million dollar money winner, ousted Steve Krulevitz by 6-4, 6-2.

Bob Lutz of Tiburon ousted Steve Tidball of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-0.

Redwood Wins, 10-1, In DiMaggio Play

Mark Ruggles pitched four perfect innings and Mike Connor stroked two hits as Redwood defeated Drake yesterday, 10-1, in a Joe DiMaggio League baseball game at Drake.

Sayers Keeps Busy But Career In Doubt

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gale Sayers makes sure he keeps busy. It's vital.

The way he does is by throwing himself completely into the five-times-a-week TV show he has in Chicago, "Gayle Sayers Comments," as well as some other outside interests he has so that he doesn't dwell on his football career too much.

He knows if he does, he runs the risk of being depressed, of wondering whether he has any football career left at 29. Sayers has worried about that, and still is worrying now.

The Chicago Bears have started without him. They've begun practice at their Rensselaer, Ind., training camp and when all the regulars showed up last Saturday, Gale Sayers did not.

The Bears' brilliant running back, who has played only two league games in each of the last two seasons, has been working out regularly the past few months following a third knee operation, but Dr. Theodore Fox, who performed the surgery, feels it's in Sayers' best interest if he delays testing the knee in actual workouts.

And if Gale Sayers doesn't make it this year, that could be the end .

Hank Stram, the coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, must be getting soft.

He gave his ball club the day off Sunday.

It was the first complete day off he has given his players in 13 years .

Dave Kingman, San Francisco's six-foot-six slugger, says "physically, I'm not that strong," and what makes it such a joke is he means it and says this all with a straight face.

"That's his problem, he doesn't really know how strong he is," says Charlie Fox, the Giants' manager. "A week or so ago he took a half swing against Carlton — that's all it was, a half swing—and he hits a line drive outta the Philadelphia ball park."

Kingman, with 21 homers already, wasn't too impressed with that blow.

"The wind was blowing out," he says .

Analysis Of Giants' Financial Condition

When the Giants sent Willie Mays and his $165,000 contract to the New York Mets, Horace Stoneham said "some people think we're in financial straits. We're not."

That statement seemed in conflict with another made at the time of the Mays' deal by Stoneham: "It always was our intention to find a place for Willie in our own organization after his active days ended. But since the other team came into Oakland (the A's) things have changed."

The president of the Giants didn't have to spell out what he meant. Candlestick Park attendance began to decline sharply when the A's moved into Oakland.

Yet, in one statement Stoneham seemed to be saying that the Giants were unable to take care of Mays after his playing days were over, and in another reassuring stockholders of National Exhibition Company (legal owner of the Giants) that the company was financially sound.

NEC STOCKHOLDERS knew what Stoneham meant because two years ago he brought stockholders up to date on NEC's real estate investments. "Real estate has to be our salvation," Stoneham said. "But the tail isn't wagging the dog yet."

While the ball club was losing $179,099 in 1968, $173,171 in 1969 and $798,000 in 1970, NEC's real estate revenues climbed steadily.

LAST YEAR Stoneham entered negotiations with Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., a subsidiary of the $5 billion Marubeni-Iida Co., Ltd., of Tokyo, with offices throught the world, including one in Los Angeles that does $45 million business a month.

Angelo Valenti, Marubeni-Iida's expert on land developments, already has inspected NEC's Casa Grande properties in Arizona and a valuable strip of NEC property between the twin cities of Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Valenti must have made a favorable report to his bosses because the negotiations between Stoneham and Yoshiro Shimao are still going on. Shimao is executive vice president and general manager of Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., with headquarters in Los Angeles.

WHEN THE GIANTS turned a baseball profit last year by winning the National League West flag, the real estate negotiations momentarily faded into the background.

But now, according to inside sources, the negotiations are close to an agreement.

Marubeni, with millions of surplus profit to invest, would like to take over NEC's real estate holdings completely for development. But Stoneham, a smart business man, is thinking along the lines of a joint venture firm composed of NEC and Marubeni executives to undertake development projects in Casa Grande and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

ALL-STAR GAME

Bench Leads N.L. Vote-Getters

NEW YORK (UPI)—Catcher Johnny Bench of the Cincinnati Reds, who is replaying his most valuable player 1970 season after a disappointing 1971 performance, was the highest vote-getter from fans who selected the National League All-Star team which meets the American Leaguers, July 25, in Atlanta, Ga.

Bench, who leads the NL in homers and runs batted in, received 1,229,677 votes to beat out Manny Sanguillen of the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates for the starting catching Berth. Third baseman Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals, the NL's most valuable player in 1971, ranked second in the overall voting with 1,180,613 followed by outfielders Hank Aaron of Atlanta, Roberto Clemente and Willie Stargell of the Pirates with 1,091,623 and 717,597 votes, respectively.

STARTING TEAM

Rounding out the NL's starting team will be first baseman Lee May of the Houston Astros, who had 688,581 votes; second baseman Joe Morgan of the Reds, who had 654,035, and shortstop Don Kessinger of the Chicago Cubs, who had 665,921 votes.

Dick Allen, a National League castoff who has found a home with the Chicago White Sox, polled over a million votes to become the American League's top vote-getter in balloting by fans for the All-Star Game July 25 in Atlanta.

Allen, a multi-talented slugger who had become a problem child when he played with the Philadelphia Phillies, St. Louis Cardinals and Los Angeles Dodgers of the National League in recent years, received 1,092,758 votes to easily win the starting first base assignment for the 43rd annual classic next week.

A MILLION

Brooks Robinson, the Baltimore Orioles' slick-fielding third baseman, was the only other American Leaguer to receive over a million votes. Although Robinson is having an off-year with just a .254 batting average, he still polled 1,041,128 votes and will be making his eighth All-Star appearance.

Completing the American League infield are second baseman Rod Carew of the Minnesota Twins and shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Boston Red Sox. Both are repeaters from last year, along with Robinson and outfielder Carl Yastrzemski of Boston.

Carew received 832,055 votes to easily beat out Cookie Rojas of the Kansas City Royals while the veteran Aparicio, who may not be able to play because of an injury, received 625,074 votes, well ahead of Bert Campaneris of the Oakland Athletics.

CATCHER

Bill Freehan won the starting catcher's job, drawing 767,538 votes to beat out Ray Fosse of the Cleveland Indians.

In the outfield along with Yastrzemski will be Oakland's Reggie Jackson, who received 902,421 votes and Bobby Murcer of the New York Yankees, who received 506,241 votes.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Gibson Sharp; Astros Edged

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Even if Bob Gibson wins every game he pitches the rest of the season—and don't bet everything you own against it—it still might not be enough for the St. Louis Cardinals to overcome the stinging bats of Pittsburgh.

Gibson struck out 13 batters and ran up his 10th consecutive victory Monday night as St. Louis edged the Houston Astros, 3-2. Following five straight losses to open the season, the 36-year-old right-hander has put together nine complete games in his 10-game winning skein.

FIFTH WIN

But the Cardinals remained 9 1-2 games in back of Pittsburgh in the National League East as Willie Stargell, batting on one good ankle and one bad one, drove home four runs to lift the Pirates to a 6-5 triumph over the Atlanta Braves. It was the fifth victory in a row for the Pirates.

"The trouble with Pittsburgh is that they don't lose too many games in a row," Gibson shrugged when asked to evaluate the Cardinals' pennant chances.

RED'S VICTORY

In the only other game played in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds stretched their West Division lead over Houston to six games by beating the Chicago Cubs, 7-2.

Detroit remained one game in front of Baltimore in the American League East as the Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox, 3-1, and the Orioles tripped the Texas Rangers by an identical 3-1 count. The Boston Red Sox beat the California Angels, 4-1, and in the only other game scheduled, the A's and Brewers were rained out at Milwaukee.

Donn Clendenon's eighth inning homer snapped a 1-1 tie for St. Louis and the Cardinals provided Gibson with what proved to be the winning run later in the inning on a single by Ed Crosby, a sacrifice and Lou Brock's single.

Gibson allowed nine hits, but retired 12 Houston batters in a row over one stretch as he whipped the Astros for the 27th time in his career.

Stargell drove in three runs with his 19th homer of the year in the first inning and delivered the winning run in the eighth with a sacrifice fly. He had injured his ankle in the second game of a doubleheader against Houston on Sunday, but said, "It feels a little tender but it'll be okay in a few days. It doesn't affect my swing.

"He (Manager Bill Virdon) asked me if I could play and I said I could."

Ramon Hernandez, who came on in the eighth inning, picked up his fifth victory without a loss.

21ST SAVE

Cincinnati scored all its runs in the middle three innings and Clay Carroll earned his 21st save of the season by shutting out the Cubs over the final two innings. The Reds collected 14 hits in running their winning streak to seven games.

Mickey Lolich won his 16th game as he limited the White Sox to seven hits, and Jim Northrup drove in two Detroit runs with a homer and a triple. Lolich, who has lost six times, struck out 11 batters.

Don Buford drew walks his first two times up and scored both times as the Orioles won their fifth consecutive game. Pat Dobson, with eighth inning relief from Roric Harrison, boosted his record to 11-8. Larry Biittner singled home the only Texas run in the sixth.

Many Sell And Market Falls Early

NEW YORK (UPI) —Trader and investors looked at the statistics and charts and decided it was time to sell today as the market plunged sharply during the first two hours of moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Declines routed advances, 958 to 286, among the 1,558 issues crossing the tape.

Noting technicalities of the market, analysts said since the DJIA did not hold at the 920 level Monday it was in line to plunge lower. Some said it may go as low as 890.

Many investors remained on the sidelines because of their concern about inflation, the international monetary situation, and increased chances of tax reform which could cut into corporate profits.

Royal Dutch Petroleum was the most active issue, down 1 at 38 3-8 on 308,500 shares, including a block of 249,900 shares at 38, off 1 3-8.

Prices also were sharply lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. American Israeli Paper was the most active issue, up 1-2 at 14 1-2 on 17,300 shares.

On the Big Board, Occidental Petroleum was delayed in opening because of an influx of orders. The company reported a second oil discovery off Nigeria and announced it has reached a multi-faceted technical and scientific agreement with the Soviet Union for the next five years. Floor sources said the issue should open higher.

AFTER 40 YEARS — Greenbrae barber Louis M. Nickle has sold his shop and is ready to retire.

Barber To Retire After 40 Years

Louis M. Nickle, 74, veteran barber at Greenbrae Barber Shop in the Bon Air Shopping Center, is ready to hand up his clipper after 40 years of barbering in Marin County.

He just sold the barber shop to Charles Baldwin of Fairfax, who was employed at the shop for two years. They have swapped positions with Baldwin as owner, and Nickle as employee.

Nickle started a barber shop on San Anselmo Avenue in San Anselmo about 1931 and moved to the present location 18 years ago.

He is one of the oldest active barbers in the county and one of the few non-members of the barber's union. Nickle said he dropped out of the union in 1955 "because they were not always fair with the members."

"I like the union," Nickle explained. "It's great for the working man, but I did not agree with some of the tactics."

The biggest change he has experienced in his 40 years of barbering was the long-hair fad that started several years ago. "Yes, business dropped quite a bit when long hair became popular, but it's picking up again."

Nickle still shows up for work, almost as a matter of habit, but it won't be long. "I'm ready to retire, but I just haven't found a hobby yet," he explained.

He and his wife Rosie live in Corte Madera.

Lost Certificates Can Be Replaced

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. North Central Airlines has been one of the most active Over-The-Counter stocks for quite some time, yet the price remains very low, changing only by very small fractions. I bought at $12. Is there any chance for recovery?—S.K.

A. This regional airline operates service between 91 cities in 13 states and Ontario, Canada. Additional routes covering 5 cities in 3 new states are being sought. The CAB announced June 1, that it had approved a 12.9 increase in subsidies for the 9 regional carriers. North Central received $8.1 million as its share.

Revenue and profit trends have reflected industry-wide conditions. From 1968 forward, earnings were irregular, despite the strong 24 per cent average annual compound growth in revenues through the period. Earnings showed some recovery in the March, 1972 quarter when an $8,219 profit was reported versus a $1.2 million deficit in the 1971 first quarter.

Financing in July, 1971 moved working capital from a $7.1 million deficit position to $4.4 million in the black. Gradual recovery is probable, particularly if new routes are approved.

Q. How can we replace lost stock certificates?—J.J.

A. First write to the transfer agents for your stocks, giving all pertinent information about your certificates — their number and the name in which they are registered. Request the transfer agent to put a "stop" on the missing shares to prevent transfer in case the shares turn up in the wrong hands.

The transfer agent will then send you a form on which to make a formal request for new certificates. Customarily there is a six-month delay before new shares are issued in the hope that the certificates will be found.
